HURRICANE WINDS WHIP FLORIDA EAST COAST

EAST COAST SCOURGED STRETCH OF 100 MILES

TOLL OF LIFE AND PROPERTY
NOW UNKNOWN, MAY BE LARGE

WIRE COMMUNICATIONS ARE DIS-RUPTED SOUTH OF DAYTONA

Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 8.—(U.P.)—Destructive winds of a hurricane lashed the Florida east coast along a 100-mile stretch today.

Toll of life and property was unknown. All wire communications were disrupted south of Daytona.

Two steamers were believed caught in the hurricane off shore.

STORM TRACES PATH FROM BAHAMA ISLANDS

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 8.—The full force of the tropical hurricane, which swept a 50-mile portion of the Florida east coast between Palm Beach and Fort Pierce last night, was expected to descend this morning on Daytona with indications it was gathering force as it whipped northward.

Approaching in intensity the hurricane which devastated Miami in 1926, the storm traced a path from the Bahama Islands Monday toward the coast, curving out to sea, and returning Tuesday afternoon toward Florida.

Its center apparently was Jupiter, north of Palm Beach, but the latter city felt the edge of the high winds. A 70-mile an hour gale did considerable damage in Palm Beach.

Early today almost the entire east Florida coast, south of Daytona, was cut off from communication with the rest of the world. The radio station at Jupiter was unable to send messages but still was able to intercept messages sent there.

Palm Beach and West Palm Beach were in darkness last night. Huge waves hammered the ocean boulevard and it was feared the drive was doomed. It was almost completely destroyed in the 1926 hurricane.

The Mallory line steamer Algonquin, with 350 passengers aboard, last night reported it was in distress off Jupiter Light. Most of the passengers were said to be women. An unidentified vessel was reported to be standing by. The Algonquin left Key West Monday night enroute from Galveston, Texas, to New York.

Reports from Miami before communication lines went out, indicated the city had escaped the storm. Meanwhile, the United States weather bureau at Washington announced another hurricane had formed in the vicinity of Porto Rico and was sweeping northwest toward the Florida coast. This new tropical disturbance was described as of considerable intensity.

So far as could be learned at an early hour this morning only one person had been injured in the storm area. At Palm Beach a lineman for the Florida Power and Light Company was severely shocked when a live wire fell onto an automobile he was driving.

An unconfirmed report from Vero, north of Palm Beach, said a 90-mile-an-hour wind was raging there shortly after midnight.

From Fort Pierce came reports of winds of 60-mile velocity. Houses at Fort Pierce were unroofed and considerable other damage caused, reports said.

New York, Aug. 8.—The Mallory steamship line reported receipt of a radio message today from Captain Byron G. Leek of the steamship Algonquin that he had put in at the Florida Straits.

The steamship line interpreted the message to mean that the Algonquin had escaped the worst of the storm off Florida, had put in at the straits for protection, and that she had had her bearings.

Washington, Aug. 8.—The U. S. weather bureau today ordered northwest storm warnings displayed at Tampa, Fla., and northeast storm warnings north of Tampa to Apalachicola.

A tropical disturbance of great intensity over southern Osceola county, Fla., moving northwest will cause strong northwest winds and gales this afternoon in the vicinity of Tampa and northeast gales north of Tampa to Apalachicola this afternoon and tonight, the bureau reported.

High tides were predicted in Tampa Bay for late tonight or tomorrow forenoon.

Little Falls, Minn., Aug. 8.—(U.P.)—Five duck hunters who forgot that the Minnesota hunting season on water fowl opens Sept. 15, were $351.75 poorer today.

The hunters arrested near Richardson were fined by Justice of the Peace Brick for bagging two ducks, the cost of which turned out to be $175 each.

Merrill Took, Brainerd, paid the heaviest penalty—$100 fine and $16.35 costs—because he resisted arrest.

Tony Hoffman, John Philippi, Ralph King and John B. Bolig, all of Pierz, were each fined $50.

WEST OFFERS NO REFUGE FOR MR. HOOVER

THE REPUBLICAN PRESIDENTIAL NOMINEE UNABLE TO GAIN

EVERY DAY AIRPLANES SWOOP

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Palo Alto, Calif., Aug. 8.—The magnificent distances of the western landscape are offering no refuge in solitude for Herbert Hoover, the republican presidential nominee.

Every day airplanes from the north, south and east swoop down on the Stanford University landing field, almost in Hoover's front yard, to bring business men, politicians, friends and government officials for brief visits.

Hoover has done no flying in recent years and he is not happy about the ease with which everyone gets here by plane. He is seeking rest and solitude in preparation for the campaign and the airplane has thwarted his plans. He has, however, always been interested in aviation developments.

Harry Culver, a California Hoover admirer, dropped out of the air yesterday to visit the former commerce secretary. He warned the nominee against over-confidence which he said would breed lethargy in the campaign. "I think it is necessary to keep everyone alive to the fact that we are facing a real battle," Culver said.

Hoover slipped off and went fishing yesterday in La Honda creek, a few miles back in the hills from his home. He caught the legal limit of ten pounds and one fish.

His plans were closely concealed so he would not have to face the battery of cameramen who are accompanying his party.

FINGER PRINTS 'CLUE' FAILS

Los Angeles, Aug. 8.—(U.P.)—Finger prints which police expected would name Leo P. Kelly, young butcher, as the murderer of Mrs. Myrtle Mellus, wealthy society woman, today were discovered not to be his.

The announcement, completely upsetting the "open and shut" case which authorities had built, was made by H. L. Barlow, police finger print expert, after he examined three bloody digital marks on the woodwork of the bathroom in the Mellus home.

Radio reported at 8:52 A. M. today that the steamer Algonquin advised it had weathered the tropical storm off the coast.

The Mallory liner, bound from Galveston to New York with 300 passengers, did not give its location in the message.

The communication read: "Tropical Radio: all okay now. Storm has apparently abated and riding all right. Many thanks. S. S. Algonquin."

The Havana special, New York to Miami fast train of the Florida east coast railroad, arrived here at 7:30 A. M. today after being "lost" during the night because of broken communication lines near Jupiter, Fla., 75 miles north of here.

The train was scheduled to arrive here at 2 A. M.

Telephone poles strewn across the track near Jupiter caused the delay, the railroad office reported.

St. Paul, Aug. 8.—(U.P.)—Blinded by tear gas bombs thrown by bandits, the driver and five guards of the Sweeney detective bureau armored money car were robbed of nearly $20,000 in currency here today.

While on the way from the American National Bank to the Drover's State Bank at South St. Paul, the driver of the armored car was forced to the curb by a large truck. A second automobile then drew alongside the money car and occupants hurled tear gas bombs at the driver and the guards.

The bandits then grabbed the money bags and escaped. Nearby telephone lines had been cut to avoid spread of an alarm.

Officials of the South St. Paul bank said a check-up revealed that $19,626 had been taken by the bandits.

St. Paul, Aug. 8.—Blinded by tear gas bombs the driver and five occupants of the Sweeney detective bureau armored money car were robbed of $19,626 here today by bandits who worked in three separate crews.

The carefully planned robbery occurred on the main highway between the American National Bank, St. Paul, and Drover's State Bank, South St. Paul.

When the money car reached the outlying sections of this city a truck bolted out suddenly from an alley barring its progress.

The truck driver hurled two tear gas bombs through the ventilator of the armored car and when the occupants opened the doors to get air, two men wearing gas masks sprang up from the weeds nearby and entered the car.

2 NEW ANGLES OF PROHIBITION QUESTION AIED

Washington, Aug. 7.—(U.P.)—Two new angles of the prohibition question as applied to the presidential campaign were pointed out in a radio debate over 22 stations last night by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, both drys.

First Mrs. Roosevelt, espousing Gov. Alfred E. Smith, democratic candidate, said she was "willing to wager" that the U. S. supreme court would have to pass upon any law enacted by congress in conformity with Smith's suggestion for changes in the prohibition statutes.

Second, Mrs. Willebrandt, assistant attorney general and supporter of Herbert Hoover, indicated that the republican, as well as the democratic, ranks were opened to those desiring prohibition changes.

Mrs. Roosevelt said Hoover's statement on prohibition revealed he was vague on the subject, whereas she believed Smith would explicitly say in the near future how he proposed to alter prohibition "without a return to the saloon."

The bandits wearing the gas masks grabbed up the money bags.

The bandits then entered a large closed automobile which apparently was driven by confederates, and escaped.

The truck, which police said had been stolen, was left behind.

Telephone wires in the vicinity of the robbery had been cut to thwart spread of the alarm.

While the bandits worked at the robbery, those who approached the scene were forced to move on at the point of a gun. One of these was Mrs. Edward Ellason, 682 Concord St., who lives near the scene of the robbery.

"I thought it was a holdup or something," Mrs. Ellason said, "and I rushed out, but one of the men with a shotgun told me to go back into the house."

Mrs. Ellason returned to her house, and decided to call police. She stole out the back door of her home to the home of a neighbor, where she managed to send in a call for police.

The scene of the holdup was one of the most advantageous that the

MONTHS

By PERCY B. SCOTT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 8.—Increasing pressure is being exerted on Gov. Alfred E. Smith to make an extended tour of the nation in his campaign for the presidency on the democratic ticket.

Some of Smith's closest advisers who originally agreed with the plan of a few talks are now advocating a swing to last at least two months, and three if possible, during which Smith would spend most of his time getting acquainted with the voters.

A tentative program calls for a trip through the border states and then into the corn belt. While he would be expected to make speeches on such a journey, its prime purpose would be to get him out and mixing with the people "to sell" his personality.

After a thorough coverage of the middle western states, the plan calls for a trip to the far west and then a return to the east, in seaboard, where the democratic candidate would close his campaign.

The only question in the minds of his friends is whether Smith can stand the physical strain of such a trip. He is in the best of health, but he never has been able to stand an extended railroad journey.

SHIP MAY BE DISABLED FROM BOILER BLAST

San Francisco, Aug. 8.—(U.P.)—Naval radio and other powerful stations here reported today they had received no word from the Stanley Dollar, 4,171-ton Dollar line freighter, believed disabled in mid-Pacific after a boiler explosion.

According to information at company offices here, the water supply of the vessel was exhausted Tuesday and the thirty crew members were in need of aid.

It was reported the Stuart Dollar and the President Grant were in the vicinity of the disabled vessel, which sailed from Aberdeen, Wash., July 19, for the Orient.

SEEK TO SAVE STATE'S NATURAL RESOURCES, ETC.

FURTHERANCE OF WORLD PEACE
URGED AT LEGION CON-VENTION

WINONA AWARDED NEXT YEAR'S CONVENTION, ST. CLOUD
UPSET

Austin, Aug. 8.—(U.P.)—Conservation of Minnesota's natural resources and the furtherance of world peace appeared the most important developments of the 10th annual state American Legion convention which ended here at noon today.

In meetings late yesterday which saw startling upsets in selection of next year's convention city, recommendations were made that the service men's organization approve the Pennsylvania plan of game reserves and do all in its power to promote peace.

Winona was awarded the 1929 convention after St. Cloud had been virtually assured the honor. Winona and Red Wing had sought the 1930 convention but at the last minute Winona made a bid for the coming convention and St. Cloud withdrew its invitation.

Since Red Wing was the only remaining bidder for the honor of entertaining the Legionaires and the Auxiliary two years hence, it appears that the river town will be granted the privilege. Final decision will be made next year.

The conservation committee declared that Minnesota game conditions have suffered because there has never been a comprehensive plan for game propagation and protection.

The committee recommended that the Legion give its approval to the Pennsylvania plan whereby game preserves are established and maintained by the state.

Rep. Allen J. Furlow, Rochester, led the cause for the furtherance of world peace. Furlow lauded the peace proposals of Secretary Kellogg and said the Legion was in accord with the movement.

Rufus Rand, Jr., Minneapolis, national executive committee member of the Legion suggested the exchange of students between the United States and other countries for the promotion of good will.

The traditional magnificent parade of the annual convention was equal this year, if not superior, to any held in the past. For an entire hour marchers swung along the gaily decorated streets in an unbroken line.

Bands and bugle corps, famous throughout the northwest, provided martial airs for the marchers. Thousands of spectators lined the parade course.

Selection of a department commander remained today before the convention was to adjourn. Stafford King, St. Paul, retiring commander of the 40 and 8 society, and former department adjutant, was the most prominently mentioned of the candidates.

EVERY AGENCY USELESS TO SAVE SAILORS

INTERIOR OF THE RAMMED SUB
REEKED WITH DEADLY
GAS

WITHIN 48 HOURS AFTER ACCI-DENT, SUBMERSIBLE WAS RAISED

By THOMAS B. MORGAN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Rome, Aug. 8.—The sunken submarine F-14 was lifted to the surface of the Adriatic sea today and the 31 members of her crew found dead within the reeking, gas filled interior.

Every agency of the Italian navy had rushed aid to the craft which went down after she rammed the Missori Monday morning. Within 48 hours the craft had been located 130 feet below the sea, air hose had been dropped, chains attached, pontoons affixed and the submersible raised.

But even that was not swift enough to save the lives of the sailors and officers. They had succumbed to the deadly gases—most of which were believed released when the submersible listed after landing 130 feet below the surface.

These 31 men were found inert, about the floor of the submersible after rescue experts, wearing gas masks, had opened the conning tower and entered the gas saturated interior.

The F-14 went down Monday when she and a group of destroyers started an attack against an "enemy" fleet in maneuvers.

The F-14 lifted from the water and struck the Missori while near the Brioni Islands.

Rescue was started immediately under the most dangerous circumstances. A terrific local wind was blowing over the water, churning the white caps on the sea's surface. Two hydroplanes started out in the storm.

They circled over the sea and finally located the submarine, its stern resting in mud.

Rescue machinery was rushed. A submarine went to a point near where the F-14 went down, air lines were dropped and a 48 hours' air supply shot into the submerged craft.

Divers fastened chains about the sunken submarine and soon the slow task of lifting the F-14 was started.

When the F-14 had been raised to a point about 40 feet below the surface great pontoons were attached and slowly the submarine was brought to the surface. Then for the first time it was learned that the 31 men had been added to the long list of submarine casualties.

Rome, Aug. 8.—Its black-draped flag half-masted, the submarine F-14 was towed back to Pola naval base today with the bodies of the two officers and 25 men who perished in it after the little ship struck a destroyer off Brioni Island in the Adriatic sea.

It had been announced previously that 31 in all were in the ship, including apprentices, but a revised list today gave the smaller figure.

An official navy department statement gave a brief, tragic summary of the manner in which the F-14's crew was found:

"At 6:40 P. M. yesterday, after 34 hours since it sank, the F-14 was raised to the surface and inspected internally at once.

Of the 27 aboard—officers, crew and apprentices—not one survived. Part perished by drowning; the others were asphyxiated, poisoned by chlorine gas fumes from the batteries of the ship."

It was indicated that all the men except those who died at once from drowning when water rushed into the stern after the collision, suffered agonies.

Sea water, filtering into the storage batteries, caused chlorine gas to form from the sulphuric acid.

Experts said the crew would not have been able to live long in the suffocating atmosphere even if gas masks had been part of the equipment.

It was ascertained in examining the submarine that she collided with the destroyer Missori while her periscope was down. Her stern was badly battered. The Missori saw nothing of the little submarine.

STORM TRACES PATH FROM BAHAMA ISLANDS

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 8.—The full force of the tropical hurricane, which swept a 50-mile portion of the Florida east coast between Palm Beach and Fort Pierce last night, was expected to descend this morning on Daytona with indications it was gathering force as it whipped northward.

Approaching in intensity the hurricane which devastated Miami in 1926, the storm traced a path from the Bahama Islands Monday toward the coast, curving out to sea, and returning Tuesday afternoon toward Florida.

Its center apparently was Jupiter, north of Palm Beach, but the latter city felt the edge of the high winds.
A 70-mile an hour gale did considerable damage in Palm Beach.

Early today almost the entire east Florida coast, south of Daytona, was cut off from communication with the rest of the world. The radio station at Jupiter was unable to send messages but still was able to intercept messages sent there.

Palm Beach and West Palm Beach were in darkness last night. Huge waves hammered the ocean boulevard and it was feared the drive was doomed. It was almost completely destroyed in the 1926 hurricane.

The Mallory line steamer Algonquin, with 350 passengers aboard, last night reported it was in distress off Jupiter Light. Most of the passengers were said to be women. An unidentified vessel was reported to be standing by. The Algonquin left Key West Monday night enroute from Galveston, Texas, to New York.

Reports from Miami before communication lines went out, indicated the city had escaped the storm.

Meanwhile, the United States weather bureau at Washington announced another hurricane had formed in the vicinity of Porto Rico and was sweeping northwest toward the Florida coast. This new tropical disturbance was described as of considerable intensity.

So far as could be learned at an early hour this morning only one person had been injured in the storm area. At Palm Beach a lineman for the Florida Power and Light Company was severely shocked when a live wire fell onto an automobile he was driving.

An unconfirmed report from Vero, north of Palm Beach, said a 90-mile-an-hour wind was raging there shortly after midnight.

From Fort Pierce came reports of winds of 60-mile velocity. Houses at Fort Pierce were unroofed and considerable other damage caused, reports said.

New York, Aug. 8.—The Mallory steamship line reported receipt of a radio message today from Captain Byron G. Leek of the steamship Algonquin that he had put in at the Florida Straits.

The steamship line interpreted the message to mean that the Algonquin had escaped the worst of the storm off Florida, had put in at the straits for protection, and that she had had her bearings.

Washington, Aug. 8.—The U. S. weather bureau today ordered northwest storm warnings displayed at Tampa, Fla., and northeast storm warnings north of Tampa to Apal-

A tropical disturbance of great intensity over southern Osceola county, Fla., moving northwest will cause strong northwest winds and gales this afternoon in the vicinity of Tampa and northeast gales north of

FINGER PRINTS 'CLUE' FAILS

Los Angeles, Aug. 8.—(U.P.)—Finger prints which police expected would name Leo P. Kelly, young butcher, as the murderer of Mrs. Myrtle Mellus, wealthy society woman, today were discovered not to be his.

The announcement, completely upsetting the "open and shut" case which authorities had built, was made by H.
L. Barlow, police fingerprint expert, after he examined three bloody digital marks on the woodwork of the bathroom in the Mellus home.

Radio reported at 8:52 A. M. today that the steamer Algonquin advised it had weathered the tropical storm off the coast.

The Mallory liner, bound from Galveston to New York with 300 passengers, did not give its location in the message.

The communication read:
"Tropical Radio: all okay now.
Storm has apparently abated and communication lines near Jupiter, Fla., 75 miles north of here.

The train was scheduled to arrive here at 2 A. M.

Telephone poles strewn across the track near Jupiter caused the delay, the railroad office reported.

2 NEW ANGLES OF PROHIBITION QUESTION AIRED

Washington, Aug. 7.—(U.P.)—Two new angles of the prohibition question as applied to the presidential campaign were pointed out last night by Mrs. Franklin D.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 8.—Increasing pressure is being exerted on Gov. Alfred E. Smith to make an extended tour of the nation in his campaign for the presidency on the democratic ticket.

Some of Smith's closest advisers who originally agreed with the plan of a few talks are now advocating a swing to last at least two months, and three if possible, during which Smith would spend most of his time getting acquainted with the voters.

A tentative program calls for a trip through the border states and then into the corn belt. While he would be expected to make speeches on such a journey, its prime purpose would be to get him out and mixing

SHIP MAY BE DISABLED FROM BOILER BLAST

San Francisco, Aug. 8.—(U.P.)— Naval radio and other powerful stations here reported today they had received no word from the Stanley Dollar, 4,171-ton Dollar line freighter, believed disabled in mid-Pacific after a boiler explosion.

According to information at company offices here, the water supply of the vessel was exhausted Tuesday and the thirty crew members were in need of aid.

It was reported the Stuart Dollar and the President Grant were in the vicinity of the disabled vessel, which sailed from Aberdeen, Wash., July 19, for the Orient.

SEEK TO SAVE STATE'S NATURAL RESOURCES, ETC.

URGED AT LEGION CON-VENTION

WINONA AWARDED NEXT YEAR'S CONVENTION, ST. CLOUD
UPSET

Austin, Aug. 8.—(U.P.)—Conservation of Minnesota's natural resources and the furtherance of world peace appeared the most important developments of the 10th annual state American Legion convention which ended here at noon today.

In meetings late yesterday which saw startling upsets in selection of next year's convention city, recommendations were made that the service men's organization approve the Pennsylvania plan of game reserves and do all in its power to promote peace.

Winona was awarded the 1929 convention after St. Cloud had been virtually assured the honor. Winona and Red Wing had sought the 1930 convention but at the last minute Winona made a bid for the coming convention and St. Cloud withdrew its invitation.

Since Red Wing was the only remaining bidder for the honor of entertaining the Legionaires and the Auxiliary two years hence, it appears that the river town will be granted the privilege. Final decision will be made next year.

The conservation committee declared that Minnesota game conditions have suffered because there has never been a comprehensive plan for game propagation and protection.

The committee recommended that the Legion give its approval to the Pennsylvania plan whereby game preserves are established and maintained by the state.

Rep. Allen J. Furlow, Rochester, led the cause for the furtherance of world peace. Furlow lauded the peace proposals of Secretary Kellogg and said the Legion was in accord with the movement.

Rufus Rand, Jr., Minneapolis, national executive committeeman of the Legion suggested the exchange of students between the United States and other countries for the promotion of good will.

The traditional magnificent parade of the annual convention was equal this year, if not superior, to any held in the past. For an entire hour marchers swung along the gaily decorated streets in an unbroken line.

Bands and bugle corps, famous throughout the northwest, provided martial airs for the marchers. Thousands of spectators lined the parade course.

Selection of a department commander remained today before the convention was to adjourn. Stafford King, St. Paul, retiring commander of the 40 and 8 society, and former department adjutant, was the most prominently mentioned of the candidates.

'HELL' COGNOMEN CAUSED BROTHERS SOME HUMILIATION

White Plains, N. Y., Aug. 8.— (U.P.)—Alfonse and Alfred Hell said considerable humiliation and they were granted the privilege of changing it to Heill.

EVERY AGENCY USELESS TO SAVE SAILORS

INTERIOR OF THE RAMMED SUB
REEKED WITH DEADLY
GAS

WITHIN 48 HOURS AFTER ACCI-DENT, SUBMERSIBLE WAS RAISED

By THOMAS B. MORGAN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Rome, Aug. 8.—The sunken submarine F-14 was lifted to the surface of the Adriatic sea today and the 31 members of her crew found dead within the reeking, gas filled interior.

Every agency of the Italian navy had rushed aid to the craft which went down after she rammed the Missori Monday morning. Within 48 hours the craft had been located 130 feet below the sea, air hose had been dropped, chains attached, pontoons affixed and the submersible raised.

But even that was not swift enough to save the lives of the sailors and officers. They had succumbed to the deadly gases — most of which were believed released when the sub-mersible listed after landing 130 feet below the surface.

These 31 men were found inert, about the floor of the submersible after rescue experts, wearing gas masks, had opened the conning tower and entered the gas saturated interior.

The F-14 went down Monday when she and a group of destroyers started an attack against an "enemy" fleet in maneuvers.

The F-14 lifted from the water and struck the Missori while near the Brioni Islands.

Rescue was started immediately under the most dangerous circumstances. A terrific local wind was blowing over the water, churning
the white caps on the sea's surface.
Two hydroplanes started out in the storm.

They circled over the sea and finally located the submarine, its stern resting in mud.

Rescue machinery was rushed. A submarine went to a point near where the F-14 went down, air lines were dropped and a 48 hours' air supply shot into the submerged craft.

Divers fastened chains about the sunken submarine and soon the slow task of lifting the F-14 was started.

When the F-14 had been raised to a point about 40 feet below the surface great pontoons were attached and slowly the submarine was brought to the surface. Then for the first time it was learned that the 31 men had been added to the long list of submarine casualties.

Rome, Aug. 8.—Its black-draped flag half-masted, the submarine F-14 was towed back to Pola naval base today with the bodies of the two officers and 25 men who perished in it after the little ship struck a destroyer off Brioni Island in the Adriatic sea.

It had been announced previously that 31 in all were in the ship, including apprentices, but a revised list today gave the smaller figure.

An official navy department statement gave a brief, tragic summary of the manner in which the F-14's crew was found:

"At 6:40 P. M. yesterday, after 34 hours since it sank, the F-14 was raised to the surface and inspected internally at once.

Of the 27 aboard—officers, crew and apprentices—not one survived.
Part perished by drowning; the others were asphyxiated, poisoned by chlorine gas fumes from the batteries of the ship."

It was indicated that all the men except those who died at once from drowning when water rushed into the stern after the collision, suffered agonies.

Sea water, filtering into the storage batteries, caused chlorine gas to form from the sulphuric acid.
Experts said the crew would not have been able to live long in the suffocating atmosphere even if gas masks had been part of the equipment.

It was ascertained in examining the submarine that she collided with the destroyer Missori while her periscope was down. Her stern was badly battered. The Missori saw nothing of the little submarine.

DISEASE GERMS CARRIED BY FLIES

Flies Must Be Killed If Infection Is To Be Prevented

Eminent health authorities say that the ordinary house fly reeks with filth and germs of dread diseases. These flies' bodies are covered with fine hairs that are saturated with unspeakable matter. They drag their contaminated bodies over food intended for human consumption. Flies taint everything they touch.

Science has developed a pleasant way to banish this most dangerous insect. Send a cloud of FLY-TOX mist high into the air and envelope and stifle flies crawling on ceilings, resting on lighting fixtures or hiding behind hanging pictures.

Have the sprayer handy, filled with FLY-TOX; and when those winging insects such as flies, mosquitoes, moth-millers and other bugs invade your home, or spiders appear with an unsightly web, a few strokes of the sprayer ends the invasion with death.

FLY-TOX is a clean, pure, fragrant liquid which is stainless and harmless to people. It was developed at Mellon Institute of Industrial Research by Rex Research Fellowship.

Curator of Library Museum Recovers From Snake Bite

Minneapolis, Aug. 8. —(UP)—Miss Grace Wiley, curator in the Library Museum here, who was bitten four times by a rattlesnake, was said today to be still in a serious condition.

The curator said the poisonous bites, received when she attempted to forcibly feed the rattler, were in the nature of an experiment since she had always held snake bites were not dangerous if properly treated.

"I expect," Miss Wiley said, "to be back to work in a week."

IMM, YOUNG, TO FLY AT CROW WING FAIR

Parachute Jumps to Furnish Thrills to Spectators, August 23, 24, 25

Airplane flying and parachute jumping will add to thrills at the County Fair this season, August 23, 24, and 25, arrangements having been completed with Gustaf O. Imm, pilot, and Clifford Young, parachute jumper to appear.

Accompanied by Hilding Swanson, Brainerd, the airmen flew to Pequot last Friday where they came to an agreement with the fair officials and have signed contracts to perform.

Mr. Swanson stated that while he had taken airplane rides before he had never seen such beautiful country from the air as that he passed over on the way to Pequot.

"I honestly believe that many lakes in Crow Wing county were left off the map as the view from the air shows a continuous stretch of lakes," said Mr. Swanson.

Imm and Young will return to Brainerd next Sunday when they will take up passengers that day and Monday.

INTENSE HEAT IN TWIN CITIES

TEMPERATURE ROSE TO 92 DEGREES YESTER.

DAY
St. Paul, Aug. 8. —(UP)—Two persons died and a third person was overcome as a result of the intense heat that struck the Twin Cities Tuesday. The temperature rose to 92 degrees.

B. J. Gardner, 42, died as he boarded a streetcar in an outlying section of St. Paul. The second victim, an unidentified man about 35 years old, was found dead on a loop street corner here.

C. C. Farlow, 45, Red Wing, Minn., was in a critical condition in a Minneapolis hospital today after he was overcome while at work with a construction crew on a Minneapolis building. He was taken to the Asbury hospital by fellow workmen.

Beginning of Shorthand
The first English treatise on shorthand in which marks represented words was published in 1588 by Timothy Bright, M. D., under the title, "Characterie: An Art of Short, Swift and Secret Writing by Characters."

Shorthand was practiced by the ancients for its secrecy as well as brevity, and a work is extant on the art which is ascribed to Tiro, the freed man of Cicero.

Ancient Roman Circus
The Circus Maximus, at Rome, was built 605 B. C. by King Tarquin and rebuilt and enlarged by Julius Caesar some years before the birth of Christ. It was 312 feet high, 18,875 feet long and 625 feet wide. It then held 150,000 spectators, but the capacity was increased to 385,000 in the fourth century A. D. The place was used for games and for horse and chariot races.

I believe Champion is the better spark plug because of the way Champions stand up in hard truck service.

Champion is the better spark plug because it has an exclusive sillimanite insulator specially treated to withstand the much higher temperatures of the modern high-compression engine. DAY

St. Paul, Aug. 8.—(UP)—Two persons died and a third person was overcome as a result of the intense heat that struck the Twin Cities Tuesday. The temperature rose to 92 degrees.

B. J. Gardner, 42, died as he boarded a streetcar in an outlying section of St. Paul. The second victim, an unidentified man about 35 years old, was found dead on a loop street corner here.

C. C. Farlow, 45, Red Wing, Minn., was in a critical condition in a Minneapolis hospital today after he was overcome while at work with a construction crew on a Minneapolis building. He was taken to the Asbury hospital by fellow workmen.

Beginning of Shorthand

The first English treatise on shorthand in which marks represented words was published in 1583 by Timothy Bright, M. D., under the title, "Characterie: An Art of Short, Swift and Secret Writing by Characters."

Shorthand was practiced by the ancients for its secrecy as well as brevity, and a work is extant on the art which is ascribed to Tiro, the freed man of Cicero.

Ancient Roman Circus

The Circus Maximus, at Rome, was built 605 B. C. by King Tarquin and rebuilt and enlarged by Julius Caesar some years before the birth of Christ. It was 312 feet high, 18,875 feet long and 625 feet wide. It then held 150,000 spectators, but the capacity was increased to 385,000 in the fourth century A. D. The place was used for games and for horse and chariot races.

Curator of Library Museum Recovers FROM SNAKE BITE

Minneapolis, Aug. 8.—(UP)—Miss Grace Wiley, curator in the Library Museum here, who was bitten four times by a rattlesnake, was said today to be still in a serious condition.

The curator said the poisonous bites, received when she attempted to forcibly feed the rattler, were in the nature of an experiment since she had always held snake bites were not dangerous if properly treated.

"I expect," Miss Wiley said, "to be back to work in a week."

Airplane flying and parachute jumping will add to thrills at the County Fair this season, August 23, 24, and 25, arrangements having been completed with Gustaf O. Imm, pilot, and Clifford Young, parachute jumper to appear.

Accompanied by Hilding Swanson, Brainerd, the airmen flew to Pequot last Friday where they came to an agreement with the fair officials and have signed contracts to perform.

Mr. Swanson stated that while he had taken airplane rides before he had never seen such beautiful country from the air as that he passed over on the way to Pequot.

"I honestly believe that many lakes in Crow Wing county were left off the map as the view from the air shows a continuous stretch of lakes" said Mr. Swanson.

Imm and Young will return to Brainerd next Sunday when they will take up passengers that day and Monday.

BUY PUREBRED SIRE, 3 REGISTERED COWS

Martin and Oscar Anderson Further Improve Fine Herd OPERATE FINE FARM

Purchase Stock at National Ormsby
Sale at State Fair Grounds

To further improve their fine herd of 20 cows and gradually produce registered stock thus boosting their cream outlay, Martin and Oscar Anderson who own and operate one of the best farms in the county have purchased one registered purebred sire and three registered cows.

The purchase was made last month at the National Ormsby Sale at the Minnesota Fair grounds, the stock being classed among the best put on the block during the sale.

The sire, Walkersires Sir Bess Ormsby May, was born on October 14, 1927. The sire is from the former U. S. Butter Champion, May Walker Ollie Homestead, the dam of three All-American winners, an unequalled record. The sire is by Sir Bess Ormsby Forbes who has a 1203 lb. record and sold at the Hollyhook dispersal for $12,000.

The three cows are: Zuyderz Juliet Agatha, Miss Ormsby Fanny Pieterje 4th, and Abbe Kirk Walker Fanny "B".

The Anderson brothers were completing the cutting of grain when County Agent E. G. Roth accompanied by a Dispatch reporter arrived to their farm in Crow Wing township this morning.

The farm is modern in every respect, and all crops look towards a bumper year. Clover seed will run five bushels to an acre with an estimated income of $75 an acre. The Anderson brothers have 18 acres of clover planted and 12 acres of potatoes which are expected to bring 250 bushels to an acre. Potatoes are selling at 63 cents a bushel.

On the 220 acres owned by the Andersons, 165 acres are under cultivation. Threshing will commence within a week.

Gov. Smith Challenges Dr. John Roach Straton to Public Debate

New York, Aug. 8.—(UP)—Alfred E. Smith, democratic candidate for president, has challenged Dr. John Roach Straton, Baptist minister, to public debate on Smith's record, and Straton has accepted.

There is a possibility the debate may be in Madison Square Garden, rebroadcast to millions through America and then resumed on a speaking tour of the southern states.

If the meeting materializes, observers here regarded it as likely to become the most noted political debate since the Lincoln-Douglas exchanges. Straton is pastor of Calvary Baptist church and one of the nation's best known ministers. In a sermon Sunday he attacked Smith's legislative record in a manner similar to the charges brought recently by William Allen White, Kansas editor, and called Smith the "deadliest foe in America of moral progress."

Smith challenged the statement. In a letter to the churchman he asked an opportunity to appear at Calvary Baptist church, and have the charges repeated in his presence so he might answer for his entire legislative act.

But Dr. Straton in answering said he thought such a debate would attract too great an audience for the church and that it should be at Madison Square Garden. In addition the pastor said his warning had been to southern democracy and that therefore he thought the two should make a tour of southern states, debating the question.

GULL LAKE FARMER IS LUCKY MAN

Art Baakkonnen Captures Advertising Balloon of County Fair

GETS GOAT AS PRIZE

First Balloon Coupon Turned in by Bill Cole, Deerwood

Art Baakkonnen, 20-year-old farmer living near Gull Lake dam, got Leo Norwood's goat Monday, and the most peculiar part of it was that he got it out of the air. He captured one of the advertising balloons that have been going up from Pequot to advertise the Crow Wing county fair to be held August 23, 24 and 25, and the coupon attached entitled the farmer to a free ticket to the fair and "one Angora goat," donated by Leo Norwood, farmer living between Pequot and Pillager.

The first balloon coupon turned in came from Bill Cole, Deerwood, and he will receive the special prize of $5, as well as a free ticket to the fair and a can of oil donated by the Pequot Motor Co. A coupon turned in from Hubert that is causing some speculation states that the balloon was found in Echo Lake town, near Lake Echo school. Scores of special prizes are being offered on the coupons carried by the balloons, offered by Pequot business men largely, but some from outside firms that have volunteered articles.

Parachute Dive for Thrill

With present pronounced interest in aviation, the fair management has contracted for the appearance of two airplanes during the fair, which will make demonstration flights and carry passengers. The thrills will come when the parachute jumper dives from the plane headlong, falling several hundred feet before his chute opens to land him safely. Travelair and Waco planes will make the flights.

A feature of the fair will be the recognition to be given the work of boys and girls, members of various clubs of Crow Wing county. It is estimated that at least 50 boys and girls will be guests of the fair management, and they will have a prominent part in the programs.

The orchestra ensemble of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra players will present programs at each of the three nights of the fair. It is anticipated that a large number of players than ever before will play at the fair this year.

Fair officers are calling attention to the fact that season tickets good for five programs of the fair, can be bought for $1 until August 15.

Outlines Tammany's Place in the Campaign for Gov. Alfred E. Smith

New York, Aug. 8.—(UP)—Chairman John J. Raskob of the democratic national committee today outlined Tammany's place in the national campaign for Gov. Alfred E. Smith.

In answer to inquiries from newspapermen, Raskob said that Tammany would serve purely in its local capacity, and has asked for no place in the national campaign.

"Tammany has attempted in no way to govern the conduct of the national committee," Raskob said.

He explained there is no intention of slighting the Tammany organization, adding "we are working with Tammany as with other local organizations."

"We regard Tammany," he said, "as an organization capable of handling its own precincts, which are in New York county. Tammany has expressed no desire to have any further place in the campaign."

Dying, Noguchi Wrote of Each Fleeting Sensation

Martyred Scientist Left
an Amazing Bequest to
His Colleagues

By GRAHAM STEWART
International Illustrated News Staff
Writer

NEW YORK.—The last five minutes of a hero's life! You picture a soldier in the smoke of battle, sorely hit but advancing—doggedly. Plunging on to grips with the foe. His heart ticking for the last few times, dying fingers convulsively sending yet another bullet into the ranks of the enemy!

How different the ending of Hideyo Noguchi, martyred Rockefeller Foundation scientist. Dying in his comfortable tent in the fever-ridden jungle near Accra (West Africa), the stolid little Japanese utilized his last moments on earth in penning what is described by colleagues as the most amazing document in medical annals.

Noguchi put on paper in the form of notes the minute-by-minute experience of a man DYING of yellow fever, transcribing each fleeting sensation as it came until—finally—his iron will no longer could transmit strength to his fingers. The scrawled bits of paper were the scientist's last will and testament, bequeathing that which he had discovered in entering the hereafter.

Noguchi is the most recent of a long list of these martyrs to science. Born in Japan, working in the United States, dying on the job in Africa, he symbolizes the international character of modern research. It was he, who, with his Oriental sense for fine values, definitely identified that pale, minute spiral which is the germ of yellow fever. Later he and his associates worked out both a vaccine to prevent the disease and a serum to cure it.

COMMANDEERS CAR, ROBS 4
MILL CITY STORES

Minneapolis, Aug. 8.—(UP)—A lone, well dressed bandit commandeered an automobile from Nelson F. Dunn here last night and in a short time robbed four suburban drug stores of $300 in currency.

The bandit accosted Dunn just as he was putting his car in the garage for the night. He ordered his victim to drive him several blocks when after robbing Dunn of $20 the bandit drove away in the car.

Four stores—the McCann Pharmacy, the Appel Drug Store, the Gould Drug Store and the store of Mrs. Bertha McWilliams—were then visited, about 10 minutes apart and each was robbed.

Motorcycle police raced about the vicinity but were eluded by the bandit.

DR. HIDEYO NOGUCHI

Years hence Noguchi will be saving lives of men and women stricken by it; yet, ironically, it was yellow fever which killed him.

So it was with Dr. Jesse M. Lazear, surgeon, U. S. A., who aided Walter Reed in the fight against the disease in Cuba. He permitted a mosquito to bite him to prove his contention that the bite of only that particular species would transmit the fever.

Lazear died. Dr. James Carroll, another army surgeon, let himself be used for the same test and he, too, died. That was in 1907, seven years after Lazear.

Howard B. Cross of the Rockefeller Foundation died of the same scourge which vanquished brave Noguchi, giving his life in an attempt to reduce the toll of disease in pestilential Vera Cruz. Similarly scores of other gallant investigators—coolly, calmly, unafraid.

The last five minutes of a hero's life! Somehow the picture is different now; Noguchi and his kind have given us a new definition of the word courage.

men could have picked, and showed, police said, that the job was carefully planned.

The robbery was the work of experts, in the opinion of Chief E. J. Murnane, who said that the men had planned their work so well that they knew that the armored car door would be opened for them by the suffocating men inside.

The men in the car, when they found the place filled with gas, said that they opened the door thinking that something had gone wrong with the car and that carbon monoxide gas was escaping into the interior.

The holdup occurred a short way from the South St. Paul city limits where Truman Alcorn, chief of police, was waiting to escort the armored car to the bank in South St. Paul.

The bombs used were army tear gas bombs and it is believed probable that they were obtained from some army camp. After the bombs had been hurled into the armored car, several were thrown on the street about the holdup to keep pedestrians away.

Two of the men were described by those near the scene of the holdup

The holdup today recalled a similar one Nov. 23, 1922, when two bandits, armed with sawed-off shotguns and aided by a woman accomplice, held up another Sweeney armored car and escaped with $5,000, the weekly payroll of a wholesale house.

It was the second holdup in St. Paul this week. Monday, two men in a high-powered touring car, held up P. A. Hanson, secretary and sales manager of the St. Paul Milk Co., and robbed him of $2,500 which he was taking to the bank.

Police are checking to learn if the identity of the two gangs of bandits is the same.

To further improve their fine herd of 20 cows and gradually produce registered stock thus boosting their cream outlay, Martin and Oscar Anderson who own and operate one of the best farms in the county have purchased one registered purebred sire and three registered cows.

The purchase was made last month at the National Ormsby Sale at the Minnesota Fair grounds, the stock being classed among the best put on the block during the sale.

The sire, Walkeracres Sir Bess Ormsby May, was born on October 14, 1927. The sire is from the former U. S. Butter Champion, May Walker Ollie Homestead, the dam of three All-American winners, an unequalled record. The sire is by Sir Bess Ormsby Fobes who has a 1293 lb. record and sold at the Hollyhook dispersal for $12,000.

The three cows are: Zuyderz Juliet Agatha, Miss Ormsby Fanny Pieterje 4th, and Abbekirk Walker Fanny "B".

The Anderson brothers were completing the cutting of grain when County Agent E. G. Roth accompanied by a Dispatch reporter arrived to their farm in Crow Wing township this morning.

The farm is modern in every respect, and all crops look towards a bumper year. Clover seed will run five bushels to an acre with an estimated income of $75 an acre. The Anderson brothers have 18 acres of clover planted and 12 acres of potatoes which are expected to bring 250 bushels to an acre. Potatoes are selling at 63 cents a bushel.

On the 220 acres owned by the Andersons, 165 acres are under cultivation. Threshing will commence within a week.

Gov. Smith Challenges Dr. John Roach Straton to Public Debate

New York, Aug. 8.—(UP)—Alfred E. Smith, democratic candidate for president, has challenged Dr. John Roach Straton, Baptist minister, to public debate on Smith's record, and Straton has accepted.

There is a possibility the debate may be in Madison Square Garden, re-broadcast to millions through America and then resumed on a speaking tour of the southern states.

If the meeting materializes, observers here regarded it as likely to become the most noted political debate since the Lincoln-Douglas exchanges.

Straton is pastor of Calvary Baptist church and one of the nation's best known ministers. In a sermon Sunday he attacked Smith's legislative record in a manner similar to the charges brought recently by William Allen White, Kansas editor, and called Smith the "deadliest foe in America of moral progress."

Smith challenged the statement. In a letter to the churchman he asked an opportunity to appear at Calvary Baptist church, and have the charges repeated in his presence so he might answer for his entire legislative act. But Dr. Straton in answering said he thought such a debate would attract too great an audience for the church and that it should be at Madison Square Garden. In addition the pastor said his warning had been to southern democracy and that therefore he thought the two should make a tour of southern states, debating the question.

First Balloon Coupon Turned in by Bill Cole, Deer-
wood

Art Baakkonnen, 20-year-old farmer living near Gull Lake dam, got Leo Norwood's goat Monday, and the most peculiar part of it was that he got it out of the air. He captured one of the advertising balloons that have been going up from Pequot to advertise the Crow Wing county fair to be held August 23, 24 and 25, and the coupon attached entitled the farmer to a free ticket to the fair and "one Angora goat," donated by Leo Norwood, farmer living between Pequot and Pillager.

The first balloon coupon turned in came from Bill Cole, Deerwood, and he will receive the special prize of $5, as well as a free ticket to the fair and a can of oil donated by the Pequot Motor Co. A coupon turned in from Hubert that is causing some speculation states that the balloon was found in Echo Lake town, near Lake Echo school. Scores of special prizes are being offered on the coupons carried by the balloons, offered by Pequot business men largely, but some from outside firms that have volunteered articles.

Parachute Dive for Thrill

With present pronounced interest in aviation, the fair management has contracted for the appearance of two airplanes during the fair, which will make demonstration flights and carry passengers. The thrills will come when the parachute jumper dives from the plane headlong, falling several hundred feet before his chute opens to land him safely. Travelair and Waco planes will make the flights.

A feature of the fair will be the recognition to be given the work of boys and girls, members of various clubs of Crow Wing county. It is estimated that at least 50 boys and girls will be guests of the fair management, and they will have a prominent part in the programs.

The orchestra ensemble of the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra players will present programs at each of the three nights of the fair. It is anticipated that a large number of players than ever before will play at the fair this year.

Fair officers are calling attention to the fact that season tickets good for five programs of the fair, can be bought for $1 until August 15.

Outlines Tammany's Place in the Campaign for Gov. Alfred E. Smith

New York, Aug. 8.—(UP)—Chairman John J. Raskob of the democratic national committee today outlined Tammany's place in the national campaign for Gov. Alfred E. Smith.

In answer to inquiries from newspapermen, Raskob said that Tammany would serve purely in its local capacity, and has asked for no place in the national campaign.

"Tammany has attempted in no way to govern the conduct of the national committee," Raskob said.

He explained there is no intention of slighting the Tammany organization, adding "we are working with Tammany as with other local organizations."

"We regard Tammany," he said, "as an organization capable of handling its own precincts, which are in New York county. Tammany has expressed no desire to have any further place in the campaign."

Dying, Noguchi Wrote of Each Fleeting Sensation

Martyred Scientist Left
an Amazing Bequest to
His Colleagues

By GRAHAM STEWART
International Illustrated News Staff
Writer

NEW YORK.—The last five minutes of a hero's life! You picture a soldier in the smoke of battle, sorely hit but advancing—doggedly. Plunging on to grips with the foe. His heart ticking for the last few times, dying fingers convulsively sending yet another bullet into the ranks of the enemy!

How different the ending of Hideyo Noguchi, martyred Rockefeller Foundation scientist. Dying in his comfortable tent in the festering insect-ridden jungle near Accra (West Africa), the stolid little Japanese utilized HIS last moments on earth in penning what is described by colleagues as the most amazing document in medical annals.

Noguchi put on paper in the form of notes the minute-by-minute experience of a man DYING of yellow fever, transcribing each fleeting sensation as it came until—finally—even his iron will no longer could transmit strength to his fingers. The scrawled bits of paper were the scientist's last will and testament, bequeathing that which he had discovered in entering the hereafter.

Noguchi is the most recent of a long list of these martyrs to science. Born in Japan, working in the United States, dying on the job in Africa, he symbolizes the international character of modern research. It was he, who, with his Oriental sense for fine values, definitely identified that pale, minute spiral which is the germ of yellow fever. Later he and his associates worked out both a vaccine to prevent the disease and a serum to cure it.

COMMANDERS CAR, ROBS 4
MILL CITY STORES

Minneapolis, Aug. 8.—(UP)—A lone, well-dressed bandit commandeered an automobile from Nelson F. Dunn here last night and in a short time robbed four suburban drug stores of $300 in currency.

The bandit accosted Dunn just as he was putting his car in the garage for the night. He ordered his victim to drive him several blocks when after robbing Dunn of $20 the bandit drove away in the car.

Four stores—the McCann Pharmacy, the Appel Drug Store, the Gould Drug Store and the store of Mrs. Bertha McWilliams—were then visited, about 10 minutes apart and each was robbed.

Motorcycle police raced about the vicinity but were eluded by the bandit.

AN AIRPORT FOR BRAINERD

THE DISPATCH is glad to see Mayor Frank E. Little and the council take action toward acquisition and improvement of an airport and that a committee has been named, of which the mayor is chairman, to confer with civic societies and other organizations to make this proposition come true.

Brainerd can ill afford to lag in this matter. Cities much smaller in size and with less to gain have established airports, regularly marked and provided with conveniences necessary.

Brainerd is on the mail route from Duluth to Fargo and it is a well known fact that established air mail routes serve as guides to commercial and other flyers. If Brainerd wants any prominence on this route and wants to fall heir to all that it means to be on a trunk air route, it must act and act quickly.

The other day Walter P. Tyrholm had an inquiry from the Ford people asking in questionnaire form all possible information regarding landing field, airport, accommodations, etc. The Ford Company makes airplanes and delivers some of its manufactured goods by airplane.

The Standard Oil Company offices at Duluth, according to its Brainerd district representative, W. C. Leftin, will soon send the company's huge $65,000 "Stanolind" to Brainerd. This is a cabin plane with three motors and carries eight passengers. The company will make the Rosko field their headquarters while here. It is expected to carry from 350 to 500 passengers in parties of six to eight for 30 minute periods. This kindly act of the Standard Oil Company will do more than anything else to stir up Brainerd in regard to aviation matters.

We remember last year when the Finkelstein & Ruben representative, Mr. Chubberly, spoke at the Chamber of Commerce meeting. He visualized the time when prominent business and professional men would fly from their homes in the south, southwest and east, where a large proportion of our tourist travel comes from, and spend their week ends in the Brainerd Lake Region.

That time is dawning. A few days ago Lieutenant Walter Bullock flew to the Rosko field and picked up former Mayor Nelson of St. Paul and carried the candidate for U. S. Senator and his wife to Cannon Falls for the dedication ceremonies. The plane returned Mr. Nelson to Brainerd and the round trip of 700 miles and the visits at Cannon Falls and Hutchinson, where Mr. Nelson gave short talks, were all accomplished in the unbelievable space of 10 hours.

Brainerd needs an air field, well marked according to regulations, and kept in such shape as to conform to standards. The Rosko field, when improved, will be an ideal spot. We hope the Mayor's committee meets with a favorable reception and that Brainerd, as a unit on this proposition, will soon establish and maintain the desired and much needed airport.

LAWS AS TO TRAFFIC SPEED

SPEED limits permitted by the states are going up, as was recently observed by the Dispatch. This is borne out by an editorial in the Minneapolis Tribune which observes that the American Automobile association is authority for the statement that in 1927 there was legislative acts in 10 states, making it legal to travel faster by motor vehicle. Most of the enactments related to traffic in the open country.

Iowa, Maryland and North Carolina raised the limit from 35 miles to 40 miles an hour, North Dakota and Oregon from 30 miles to 35 miles an hour. Michigan made the sky the limit, if we may use a sporting term.

All these laws add to the evidence that the American people are a people in a hurry. They indicate, however, something more than that, namely, that the American people are equipping themselves with better roads and with appropriate safeguards in the way of road markings.

Having a legal speed limit of 35 miles to 40 miles an hour does not at all signify that drivers are immune from personal responsibility if, though keeping within the limit set by law, they plainly endanger the lives of others or do them injury. Whatever the law may stipulate in general about permissible rates of travel, there is always the reserve that it is up to the driver to exercise due caution unflinchingly. There are times and places in the open country when a speed of 35 to 40 miles is reasonably safe, and there are also times and places when a speed of 25 to 30 miles is palpably unsafe. A driver is presumed to be able to make these distinctions and comport himself accordingly. There are innumerable occasions when, if things go wrong, he can not hope in court to find refuge in the fact of a legal speed limit which he does not exceed. Traffic laws are regulative, but they are not back seat drivers or the controlling factor at the wheel.

With motor cars constructed as they now are a speed of 35 to 40 miles an hour, and even more, over good road beds is not excessive from the standpoint of car mechanism, whatever it may once have been. The laws of many states recognize this fact, but that is as far as they are intended to go. They require inferentially, if not specifically, that the driver shall have eyes that see, ears that hear, and faculties that enable him to draw the line at any time between carefulness and recklessness, between safety and peril.

Whether there should be no legal speed limit in the open country is a moot question. Looked at in one way, the absence of any ban seems to accentuate the onus of responsibility that lies on the driver; looked at in another way, it might be said that legal restriction is highly desirable.

A TAX THAT MISSED FIRE

THE Duluth Herald in a recent editorial reviews a late decision of the state supreme court which has upheld the constitutionality of the state tax on iron ore royalties. It has also upheld the practice of imposing this tax on the lessee-operators where they have contracted with the fee-owners to pay all taxes. And that provision is in virtually all leases.

It is very clear that this tax, which was based on a very attractive theory that seems, like many other attractive theories, to have gone wrong; has completely missed fire.

Aimed at the fee-owners who do nothing except draw royalties, it misses them and hits the operators of iron mines, who were already heavily loaded with taxes.

It was not at all the intent of the legislature when it passed this law to add another burden to the mining industry. The legislature had in mind land-owners, some of whom were lumbermen who were about to let their lands go after cutting the timber because they were no good, when iron was discovered on them. It felt that these fee-owners, who render no special public service for the revenues they draw from the mining industry, could well afford to pay a tax on their royalties.

But now it appears that they pay nothing at all. They have leased their lands to operating companies which agreed to pay all taxes, and it develops that this agreement must cover the royalty tax too.

So that all the legislature has accomplished is to add another tax burden to an industry that was already staggering under an appalling tax burden.

If this tax cannot be applied where it was intended to apply, that is to the fee-owners, then the duty of the legislature is plain. It ought to lose no time in repealing the royalty tax law.

THE 1929 automobile license plates for Minnesota, white letters and figures on black background, 665,000 pairs of them in all, were ordered Friday by Herbert W. Austin, state purchasing commissioner, from the Western Stamping & Manufacturing Co., of St. Paul, successful bidder. This company furnished the 1928 plates. The 1929 plates will cost Minnesota about $65,000, at a trifle over 5 cents each.

A NEVER failing place of romance and adventure, a place which brings together the wanderers and the lonely, the fugitives, and the exiled, is a news stand a half a block from the center of the city. It is a stand packed with papers, some old and faded, some new and crisp, and some with title lines done in foreign type. "Get your home town paper," reads a sign and it is because every man has a hungry eye for the news from home that the stand has an attraction for those, like Ed Wylie, who go forth seeking sentiment and human interest stories as others look for stamps or first editions.

Ed noticed that the customers of this stand did not seize their papers and rush off, as is the habit elsewhere. Instead they could not wait a later hour for a look at the pages, so opened them and scanned the columns. Some were made merry by the tidings from home, others morose. But they all read and walked away slowly a little of the loneliness removed.

Jake, the man who kept the stand, called Ed's attention to a besotted individual who approached as a derelict before the wind.

"It's his day to get a paper. Does it once a month. Watch him now and figure out the answer, if you can."

The seedy one halted his erratic course in front of the stand, moved to a familiar rack and pulled out a paper, scanning the date line. Then he shoved a dirty hand into a deep pocket, extracted a nickel and made his purchase. Unlike the rest, he put the paper in his pocket quickly and moved away.

Jake grinned. "He's been doing that now for some months, but I can't figure why. And you can't, either, until you see the rest. Be here tomorrow about this time and maybe I can show you."

The next day Ed was back at the news stand awaiting the approach of the faded old bum who still had enough money for his home town paper. Jake nudged him.

"Take a good look at this," he said, indicating an odd figure; "take a good look and say nothing."

In clothes which were evidently reserved for special occasions, with shoes shined and face scrubbed, the staggering sight of yesterday was transformed into a meek old man bearing himself proudly in his modest best. There was happiness and triumph in his walk. The old man swung by and Ed turned wondering to Jake.

"How did you know?" he asked. "Tomorrow," said Jake, "he will be a bum again and stay that way for a month. Then he will buy a paper and have a day of respectability. Now you know as much as I do," and Jake moved to hand a little weekly to a woman who signaled from a limousine.

That was enough for Ed Wylie who spent his time until he could see the old man again, trying to build the story on the meager facts. Impatiently Ed waited next day, and when the old man, dirty and ragged once more, passed without so much as a glance at the stand, Ed followed. For several blocks they went until at last they reached a quiet street. Ed quickened his pace and touched the man on the shoulder, receiving the frightened look of one who had been touched there before.

"No, I'm no Dick," Ed explained. "I'm just a man with a little spare change and a taste of curiosity."

ORDER LIMITING TIME TO FILE CLAIMS AND FOR HEARING THEREON

State of Minnesota, County of Crow Wing, ss. In Probate Court.

In the Matter of the Estate of Frank Oscar Parsons, Decedent.

Letters of Administration this day having been granted to Alma C. Whiting, and an affidavit of no debts having been made and filed herein.

IT IS ORDERED That the time within which all creditors of the above named decedent may present claims against his estate in this Court, be, and the same hereby is, limited to three months from and after the date hereof; and that October 22nd, 1928, at 10 o'clock A. M., in the Probate Court Rooms in the Court House at Brainerd, in said County, be, and the same hereby is, fixed and appointed as the time and place for hearing upon and the examination, adjustment and allowance of such claims as shall be presented within the time aforesaid.

Let notice hereof be given by the publication of this order in The Brainerd Daily Dispatch, as provided by law, and by mailed notice as provided by the rules of this Court.

Dated July 21st, 1928.

want to know why you buy a paper each month and change your habits for a day, and I'm willing to give that spare change for the answer."

For a moment the old man glared at the youngster.

"It's none of your business!" Ed thought it was remembrance of the money offer that brought a change in the man. He straightened now and despite his rags, resembled the man of the day before. The look of pride was there.

"You think I'm a bum," he said. "Well, maybe I am, but look at that!" He drew the paper from his pocket, unfolded it and pointed to a news story. It was a monthly report of the high school in a home city, a report which gave the names of those who were on the honor roll.

"My boy," said the old man, "he's on the honor roll. He amounts to something. He's been there every month."

And the ragged man held his head high as he walked off without so much as looking at the money Ed held in his hand.

Sticks to Her Story

Six months ago a newspaper woman asked Aileen Pringle what she was going to do when her picture was finished, notes Photoplay Magazine.

"Oh, I'm going to try to pay off the mortgage on my house," replied Miss Pringle.

The other day the newspaper woman revisited the star and repeated her query.

"My story still sticks," the unforgetful Aileen answered. "I'm still trying."

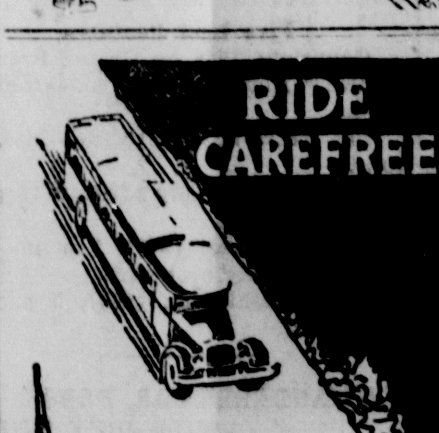

Criticism

"When you don't think much of them as a book reviewer?"

"I couldn't review a book of 2 centimes."

State Fair plans Colossal Program

ONE Thousand and one great educational and entertainment features will be presented at the coming $5,000,000.00 Minnesota State Fair and Northwest Livestock Show, Twin Cities, September 1 to 8.

The mammoth 1928 exposition will be a hundred times bigger than the biggest circus ever held. It will present a gigantic livestock show of more than 3,000 head of cattle, horses, swine and sheep. A wonderful exhibit of farm crops, fruits, and flowers will be a feature. Twelve hundred boys and girls will demonstrate club work.

A startling feature will be a public demonstration of an auto driven by radio control from an aeroplane, 1,500 feet in the air. Giuseppe Creatore and his world-famous band of 44 pieces will play three times daily for seven days. Three days of auto racing, and four days of horse racing are scheduled. Poodles Hanneford, world's greatest clown rider, will headline the vaudeville program. There will be 80 acres of machinery, a $500,000 art show, a wild animal zoo, the fireworks spectacle "A Night in Bagdad," and hosts of other attractions. They all make it the biggest and best State Fair in all the land.

"A NIGHT IN BAGDAD" AT MINNESOTA STATE FAIR

"A Night in Bagdad," the most gorgeous fireworks spectacle ever staged by any state fair in the world, will be a nightly feature of the Minnesota State Fair and Northwest Livestock Show, September 1 to 8. This gigantic spectacle will be put on in front of a scenic background more than 300 feet long, and will require the assistance of nearly 500 persons to put it on. As a supplement to the fireworks program, two stages of open-air circus acts, auto racing, horse racing, Creatore's band, and a score of other great entertainment and educational features will be staged. Horse races will be staged Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday. Auto races will be put on the opening and closing Saturday, and Wednesday, Sept. 5. The open-air circus acts, headed by "Poodles" Hanneford, world's greatest riding comedian, will be staged each afternoon and evening.

DIVING HORSE AT MINNESOTA STATE FAIR

A diving horse, the most daring horse in all the world, will dive from an elevated platform into a pool of water 100 feet below twice a day at the coming Minnesota State Fair and Northwest Livestock Show, Twin Cities, September 1 to 8, as an added attraction to the big open-air circus program staged in front of the grandstand. The horse will be ridden by a girl, when it takes the big leap. A dozen outstanding open-air circus acts will be presented each afternoon and evening as a supplement to the leap of the diving horse. Other entertainment features will be auto racing, horse racing, fireworks, Creatore's band, and a host of other big features. The educational program is a stupendous one. It will include an exhibit of more than 3,000 cattle, horses, swine and sheep from the leading herds, flocks and stables of America.

AN AIRPORT FOR BRAINERD

THE DISPATCH is glad to see Mayor Frank E. Little and the council take action toward acquisition and improvement of an airport and that a committee has been named, of which the mayor is chairman, to confer with civic societies and other organizations to make this proposition come true.

Brainerd can ill afford to lag in this matter. Cities much smaller in size and with less to gain have established airports, regularly marked and provided with conveniences necessary.

Brainerd is on the mail route from Duluth to Fargo and it is a well known fact that established air mail routes serve as guides to commercial and other flyers. If Brainerd wants any prominence on this route and wants to fall heir to all that it means to be on a trunk air route, it must act and act quickly.

The other day Walter P. Tyrholm had an inquiry from the Ford people asking in questionnaire form all possible information regarding landing field, airport, accommodations, etc. The Ford Company makes airplanes and delivers some of its manufactured goods by airplane.

The Standard Oil Company offices at Duluth, according to its Brainerd district representative, W. C. Leftin, will soon send the company's huge $65,000 "Stanolind" to Brainerd. This is a cabin plane with three motors and carries eight passengers. The company will make the Rosko field their headquarters while here. It is expected to carry from 350 to 500 passengers in parties of six to eight for 30 minute periods. This kindly act of the Standard Oil Company will do more than anything else to stir up Brainerd in regard to aviation matters.

We remember last year when the Finkelstein & Ruben representative, Mr. Chubberty, spoke at the Chamber of Commerce meeting. He visualized the time when prominent business and professional men would fly from their homes in the south, southwest and east, where a large proportion of our tourist travel comes from, and spend their week ends in the Brainerd Lake Region.

That time is dawning. A few days ago Lieutenant Walter Bullock flew to the Rosko field and picked up former Mayor Nelson of St. Paul and carried the candidate for U. S. Senator and his wife to Cannon Falls for the dedication ceremonies. The plane returned Mr. Nelson to Brainerd and the round trip of 700 miles and the visits at Cannon Falls and Hutchinson, where Mr. Nelson gave short talks, were all accomplished in the unbelievable space of 10 hours.

Brainerd needs an air field, well marked according to regulations, and kept in such shape as to conform to standards. The Rosko field, when improved, will be an ideal spot. We hope the Mayor's committee meets with a favorable reception and that Brainerd, as a unit on this proposition, will soon establish and maintain the desired and much needed airport.

LAWS AS TO TRAFFIC SPEED

SPEED limits permitted by the states are going up, as was recently observed by the Dispatch. This is borne out by an editorial in the Minneapolis Tribune which observes that the American Automobile association is authority for the statement that in 1927 there was legislative acts in 10 states, making it legal to travel faster by motor vehicle. Most of the enactments related to traffic in the open country.

Iowa, Maryland and North Carolina raised the limit from 35 miles to 40 miles an hour, North Dakota and Oregon from 30 miles to 35 miles an hour. Michigan made the sky the limit, if we may use a sporting term.

All these laws add to the evidence that the American people are a people in a hurry. They indicate, however, something more than that, namely, that the American people are equipping themselves with better roads and with appropriate safeguards in the way of road markings.

Having a legal speed limit of 35 miles to 40 miles an hour does not at all signify that drivers are immune from personal responsibility if, though keeping within the limit set by law, they plainly endanger the lives of others or do them injury. Whatever the law may stipulate in general about permissible rates of travel, there is always the reserve that it is up to the driver to exercise due caution unflinchingly. There are times and places in the open country when a speed of 35 to 40 miles is reasonably safe, and there are also times and places when a speed of 25 to 30 miles is palpably unsafe. A driver is presumed to be able to make these distinctions and comport himself accordingly. There are innumerable occasions when, if things go wrong, he can not hope in court to find refuge in the fact of a legal speed limit which he does not exceed. Traffic laws are regulative, but they are not back seat drivers or the controlling factor at the wheel.

With motor cars constructed as they now are a speed of 35 to 40 miles an hour, and even more, over good road beds is not excessive from the standpoint of car mechanism, whatever it may once have been. The laws of many states recognize this fact, but that is as far as they are intended to go. They require inferentially, if not specifically, that the driver shall have eyes that see, ears that hear, and faculties that enable him to draw the line at any time between carefulness and recklessness, between safety and peril.

Whether there should be no legal speed limit in the open country is a moot question. Looked at in one way, the absence of any ban seems to accentuate the onus of responsibility that lies on the driver; looked at in another way, it might be said that legal restriction is highly desirable.

A TAX THAT MISSED FIRE

THE Duluth Herald in a recent editorial reviews a late decision of the state supreme court which has upheld the constitutionality of the state tax on iron ore royalties. It has also upheld the practice of imposing this tax on the lessee-operators where they have contracted with the fee-owners to pay all taxes. And that provision is in virtually all leases.

It is very clear that this tax, which was based on a very attractive theory that seems, like many other attractive theories, to have gone wrong, has completely missed fire.

Aimed at the fee-owners who do nothing except draw royalties, it misses them and hits the operators of iron mines, who were already heavily loaded with taxes.

It was not at all the intent of the legislature when it passed this law to add another burden to the mining industry. The legislature had in mind land-owners, some of whom were lumbermen who were about to let their lands go after cutting the timber because they were no good, when iron was discovered on them. It felt that these fee-owners, who render no special public service for the revenues they draw from the mining industry, could well afford to pay a tax on their royalties.

But now it appears that they pay nothing at all. They have leased their lands to operating companies which agreed to pay all taxes, and it develops that this agreement must cover the royalty tax too.

So that all the legislature has accomplished is to add another tax burden to an industry that was already staggering under an appalling tax burden.

If this tax cannot be applied where it was intended to apply, that is to the fee-owners, then the duty of the legislature is plain. It ought to lose no time in repealing the royalty tax law.

THE 1929 automobile license plates for Minnesota, white letters and figures on black background, 665,000 pairs of them in all, were ordered Friday by Herbert W. Austin, state purchasing commissioner, from the Western Stamping & Manufacturing Co., of St. Paul, successful bidder. This company furnished the 1928 plates. The 1929 plates will cost Minnesota about $65,000, at a trifle over 5 cents each.

LINDSTROM, BOTTOMLEY SEEM MOST VALUABLE PLAYERS

TWO LEADING CANDIDATES IN NATIONAL

LINDSTROM'S BRILLIANT ALL-AROUND PLAY AIDED GIANTS

BOTTOMLEY, ST. LOUIS FIRST SACKER, PLAYS LARGE PART IN THEIR SUCCESS

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Aug. 8.—The two leading candidates for the most valuable player award of the National League this season are Freddy Lindstrom, third baseman of the New York Giants, and Jim Bottomley, first baseman of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Lindstrom's brilliant all-around play largely has been responsible for the winning streak of the Giants who have climbed to within 5½ games of the league-leading Cardinals.

Lindstrom's bat alone drove in enough runs to beat the Cardinals yesterday. His two hits—a single and a triple—accounted for five of the Giants' ten runs. The Giants have won 12 out of 16 games against the western clubs, and no player on the New York club has contributed more to the pennant drive.

New York players are loud in their praise of Lindstrom, and even President Charles A. Stoneham rates him the best player in the league.

"It would be a great surprise and a keen disappointment to me if Lindstrom were passed up for the most valuable player award," Stoneham said.

"Lindstrom is playing the best ball of any player in the circuit," according to Bill Terry, Giants first sacker. "Jim Bottomley can't beat me, much less Lindstrom."

Regardless of Terry's opinion of Bottomley, the St. Louis first sacker has played no small part in the success of the Cardinals.

No more interesting character is performing in the major leagues than Lindstrom, who was a world series star at 18. He hit .333 in the 1924 world series between the Giants and Washington Senators, making four hits off Walter Johnson in one game.

Lindstrom is not expected to be one of the stars of this season. He was troubled by his spine last year and had to play the outfield most of the time. When he did play third base last year he had to be strapped in a steel corset. Back in physical shape Lindstrom has proved to be the most valuable player of the New York club.

Rogers Hornsby, second baseman and manager of the Boston Braves, and Paul Waner, right fielder of the Pittsburgh Pirates, both former winners of the most valuable player prize, are two stars who are performing brilliantly for second division clubs.

The Chicago Cubs' outstanding candidate is Hack Wilson, the strong-armed outfielder. Hugh Critz, brilliant little second baseman of the Cincinnati Reds, Burleigh Grimes, who has won 20 games for the fifth place Pirates, and Fresno Thompson, sensational second baseman of the last place Phillies, are others worthy of consideration.

WHAT OUTSTANDING STARS DID YESTERDAY

(By United Press)

Editor's Note—Freddy Lindstrom, third baseman of the New York Giants, whose play is the talk of the National League, and Al Simmons, Philadelphia Athletics' outfielder, who is leading the American League in batting with an average of .389, have been added to this daily feature. Cobb and Speaker, who are not playing regularly, have been dropped.

Babe Ruth—Got a single and a double in three trips, and scored one run.

Lou Gehrig—Singled twice in two times up, driving in two runs and scoring two more.

Harry Heilmann—Got a single and double in three trips and scored one run.

Al Simmons—Singled once in three trips.

Rogers Hornsby—Idle.

Frankie Frisch—Singled once in three times up.

P. Waner—His single in the 12th gave the Pirates a 3 to 2 victory over the Robins in the second game after getting a single, double and home run in four times up in the first game.

Freddy Lindstrom—Got a single and triple, driving in five runs and scoring one himself.

Sad Sam Jones pitched the Washington Senators to an 8 to 0 victory over Cleveland.

Lu Blue hit two home runs as the St. Louis Browns beat the Boston Red Sox, 6 to 5. His second homer won the game.

LOCALS TO ENGAGE CUBAN PIRATES IN MOUND CLASH HERE

TEAMS MEET ON MUNICIPAL FIELD SATURDAY AFTERNOON. FAST BALL PREDICTED

VISITORS ON FIRST AMERICAN TOUR SHOW SPEEDY BASE-BALL; GAIN GOOD "REP"

The Brainerd Baseball club will cross bats with the Cuban Pirates next Saturday afternoon at the municipal field.

The Cuban Pirates club is composed of native Spanish speaking Cubans picked from the fastest ball clubs on the little isle and is especially recommended to Manager Robert Block by Grover Marquis of Bemidji who has seen them in action several times. The latter considers the Cuban boys faster than the House of David or Gilekerson's Giants.

This is their first American tour and they are playing to packed parks wherever they appear.

The local management has gone to considerable expense to book this attraction and the fans may be assured of seeing a real ball game.

GUS KALLIO DEFEATS FISHER

ANNEXES MIDDLEWEIGHT WRESTLING CHAMPIONSHIP AT CHICAGO

Chicago, Aug. 8.—(UP)—Gus Kallio of Louisville, Ky., annexed the middleweight wrestling championship here last night when he was awarded the referee's decision over Charles "Midget" Fisher of Butter-out, Wis., after a two and a half hour tussle.

Johnny Meyers, who recently forfeited the title because he was said to be overweight, announced he would meet the winner of the Kallio-Fisher match.

In the preliminaries Fritz Von Mier defeated George Mach; Jim Scillar defeated Paul Martinson, and Kary Pojello, Lithuanian champion, defeated Henry Stoeff of Oshkosh, Wis. All preliminaries were heavyweight matches.

Yesterday's Hero—Larry Benton, New York Giants' ace, who held the league-leading Cardinals to six hits, the Giants winning 10 to 1. It was Benton's eighteenth victory and twenty-first complete game.

The Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Brooklyn Robins twice, 4 to 3 and 3 to 2, extending their winning streak to six straight. Burleigh Grimes won his twentieth game of the season.

The last place Philadelphia Phillies won their third straight game from the Chicago Cubs 4 to 2.

The New York Yankees closed their disastrous western trip with a 6 to 3 victory over the Chicago White Sox. Herb Pennock won his sixteenth game of the season.

HE PUT BOOK LEARNING BEFORE HIS PROFESSION

CHAMPION DID NOT LIKE TO FIGHT, REPULSIVE TO HIM

HE HAD ALL NATURAL ASSETS OF FIGHTER EXCEPT HEART

By JACK McAULIFFE
(Retired Undeclared Lightweight Champion)

(Copyright, 1928, by United Press)

New York, Aug. 8.—The passing of Gene Tunney—the first New York boy to hold the world's heavyweight title since Tom Hyer's time almost 100 years ago—seems tragic.

The reason Tunney retired is that he put book-learning before his profession. Tunney did not like to fight. The word fight was repulsive to him. If Tunney had loved to fight, he would have been one of the greatest champions of all time. He had all the natural assets but the heart.

Tunney was not the first well-read heavyweight champion. John L. Sullivan had the head of a Daniel Webster, and could hold his own with college professors. What made Sullivan the most popular champion that ever lived was that he had a standing challenge to fight any man in the world.

Jim Corbett never got the acclaim due a champion because he whipped the fans' idol—John L. Sullivan. Bob Fitzsimmons also lost many followers because he defeated the original Jack Dempsey. Jack Dempsey, who beat Jess Willard for the title, was hissed the first year he wore the crown because of his war record.

Tunney could have been as popular as any if he had possessed the desire to devote himself wholly to the ring. Tunney retired at the peak of his career. He still has many good battles left in him, but once away from the ring a man of his temperament is not apt to come back again. Tommy Loughran, the light-heavyweight champion, will make a mistake by trying to win the heavyweight title. No good little man can whip a good big man.

New York, Aug. 8.—Joe Sekyra, Dayton, O., who filed a claim for the heavyweight title with the New York athletic commission yesterday, will meet James J. Braddock, Jersey City, one of Tom Heeney's sparring partners, in a 10-round bout at Ebbetts field, Brooklyn, tonight. Sekyra is a 2 to 1 favorite. Both men are light-heavyweights.

New York, Aug. 8.—Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia, light-heavyweight champion, has not resigned his title to campaign among the heavyweights and may not do so. Loughran today was on the first day of a voluntary 60-day leave of absence granted him by the New York state athletic commission. On his return, Loughran will meet Leo Lomski, Aberdeen, Wash., in a title bout under Humbert J. Fugazy's promotion.

New York, Aug. 8.—Johnny Risko of Cleveland, George Godfrey of Leipsville, Pa., and Joe Sekyra, Dayton, O., have informed the New York state athletic commission that they would be willing to accept the heavyweight title vacated by Gene Tunney.

Title matches between Mickey Walker and Rene De Vos of Belgium for the middleweight title and Tony Canzoneri and Andre Routis of France for the featherweight title have been sanctioned by the commission. A challenge on behalf of King Tut, Minneapolis lightweight, to Sammy Mandell, 135-pound champion, was filed by the commission.

SOUTHWEST IN LOOK-IN ON THE BOXING STATUS

NOT TO BE LEFT ENTIRELY IN COLD ON HEAVYWEIGHT ELIMINATION

GIANT NEGRO HARTWELL, BABE HUNT AND "TINY" ROEBUCK ARE CANDIDATES

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 8.—(UP)—The great southwest is not to be left entirely in the cold on this heavyweight elimination proposition when Tex Rickard sets out to name the successor of the erudite Mr. Tunney.

Boxing but recently emerged from a sub-rosa status to full legality in the southwest. Kansas made the art legal three years ago, and Missouri followed suit last year. Nebraska was ahead of Kansas by a year, but in Oklahoma there still is no state commission, the game flourishing under local option.

And it is singular but true that out in these great open spaces, where men are supposed to be of giant stature, the fistic products of the best type have not been in the heavyweight class.

Probably the best is a giant negro who was discovered in the packing house district of Kansas City, Kas., three years ago, and has been fighting ever since under the name of Big Bill Hartwell. He has accumulated a string of knockouts that impresses, regardless of the caliber of his opponents.

Recently he bowled over the hollow hulk of the once great Jack Johnson, in a fight at Topeka, Kas., and on the strength of that performance went east. The negro recently knocked out Lee Anderson, an easterner, in Boston.

Then there is Babe Hunt, a huge Oklahoman and just a youngster, but with a good string of knockouts in the two years he has been in the professional ring. Hunt is a good, clean youngster with a world of ambition, and the ability to improve gradually as he fights.

About six months ago fight fans in this part of the country might have been up and shouting for one "Tiny" Roebuck, former All-American football star with the Haskell Indian eleven, and as colorful a candidate for the heavyweight robes as one could desire.

But since his promising debut, Roebuck has slipped back somewhat. After slapping over half a dozen palookas in the local rings, the Indian was taken to Chicago to meet Otto Von Porat. Otto made a vanishing American out of him, and how.

Still Roebuck has the size and amazing ability and if he can be slapped into the realization that he must mind his mentors and learn something about his fight game, he still may come along. He has been inordinately hard to handle, trainers who have attempted the job say.

The Blue and the Gray Aces

By QUIN HALL.

DAN HOWLEY, the manager of the St. Louis Browns, seems to be right smart when it comes to mixing up well known combinations. Dan has taken a youthful lot of ball players and mixed them in proper proportions with a few well seasoned campaigners and is giving St. Louis one of the fightingest teams it ever had in the American League.

In addition Dan has whetted up the patriotic fervor and once again recalled the stirring Civil War days by bringing under the same tent the Blue and the Gray.

Sammy Gray, with his steady pitching, is responsible for a mess of St. Louis victories so far this season and is good for a lot more before the final standings are passed over to the hot stove league and Lou Blue is doing a first class job of initial sacking for the Browns.

The very thing that led to Connie Mack trading off Gray is proving Sammy's ace in the hole during the present campaign. Connie didn't like the persist-manner in which Sammy used the lob ball. Mack insisted that it was so slow that the opposing batters just got set and waited for it to arrive and then parked it in the four corners of the apple orchard. Gray is using the same delivery this year, mixing it with his fast ones for a change of pace and is meeting with considerable success. Sammy, however, agrees that he's perfected the delivery so that it is much more deadly this year than last. He intimates that he needs lots of work and that on the big staff of the Athletics he didn't get a chance to pitch as often as he really should. He contends that his control improves with frequent work and he is of the opinion that he can twirl much better when he is allowed to take to the hill every fourth day.

Some of the fans were inclined to censure Mack when he traded Gray, who was acknowledged the outstanding young pitcher in 1925, to the Browns for Bing Miller. But Miller is helping out the Athletics with his heavy clouting, and Connie is in no manner angered over the trade or the fact that Sammy is making good in his new surroundings on the banks of the Mississippi.

While never being an exceptional heavy handed of the mace, Lou Blue has done his bit toward helping make the Browns what they are today. He covers the territory around the initial corner in an able manner, and he is a steady influence to an infield which is very new in some spots and yet very capable.

The Browns present a pretty formidable front these days and they are proving that they can upset the bean basket for some of the so-called experting experts of the game—a few of whom gave the club no better a spot than the cellar for the end of the season.

The wise ones in the game are allotting a place in the first division to Dan Howley's crew, and if the Athletics should crack it wouldn't be at all surprising to see the Browns on the second rung of the ladder. And Howley has a few rather green timbers which are sure to show a world of improvement, and it looks as if they would come into next year's race highly respected by the other clubs in the circuit.

And probably again next year we will find the Blue and the Gray still nestling together under the wing of Dan Howley.

LINDSTROM, BOTTOMLEY SEEM MOST VALUABLE PLAYERS

TWO LEADING CANDIDATES IN NATIONAL

LINDSTROM'S BRILLIANT ALL-AROUND PLAY AIDED GIANTS

BOTTOMLEY, ST. LOUIS FIRST SACKER, PLAYS LARGE PART IN THEIR SUCCESS

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Aug. 8.—The two leading candidates for the most valuable player award of the National league this season are Freddy Lindstrom, third baseman of the New York Giants, and Jim Bottomley, first baseman of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Lindstrom's brilliant all-around play largely has been responsible for the winning streak of the Giants who have climbed to within 5½ games of the league-leading Cardinals.

Lindstrom's bat alone drove in enough runs to beat the Cardinals yesterday. His two hits—a single and a triple—accounted for five of the Giants' ten runs. The Giants have won 12 out of 16 games against the western clubs, and no player on the New York club has contributed more to the pennant drive.

New York players are loud in their praise of Lindstrom, and even President Charles A. Stoneham rates him the best player in the league.

"It would be a great surprise and a keen disappointment to me if Lindstrom were passed up for the most valuable player award," Stoneham said.

"Lindstrom is playing the best ball of any player in the circuit," according to Bill Terry, Giants first sacker. "Jim Bottomley can't beat me, much less Lindstrom."

Regardless of Terry's opinion of Bottomley, the St. Louis first sacker has played no small part in the success of the Cardinals.

No more interesting character is performing in the major leagues than Lindstrom, who was a world series star at 18. He hit .333 in the 1924 world series between the Giants and Washington Senators, making four hits off Walter Johnson in one game.

Lindstrom is not expected to be one of the stars of the Giants this season. He was troubled by his spine last year and had to play the outfield most of the time. When he did play third base last year he had to be strapped in a steel corset. Back in physical shape Lindstrom has proved to be the most valuable player of the New York club.

Rogers Hornsby, second baseman and manager of the Boston Braves, and Paul Waner, right fielder of the Pittsburgh Pirates, both former winners of the most valuable player prize, are two stars who are performing brilliantly for second division clubs.

The Chicago Cubs' outstanding candidate is Hack Wilson, the strong-armed outfielder. Hugh Critz, brilliant little second baseman of the Cincinnati Reds, Burleigh Grimes, who has won 20 games for the fifth place Pirates, and Fresco Thompson, sensational second baseman of the last place Phillies, are others worthy of consideration.

WHAT OUTSTANDING STARS DID YESTERDAY

(By United Press)

Editor's Note—Freddy Lindstrom, third baseman of the New York Giants, whose play is the talk of the National League, and Al Simmons, Philadelphia Athletics' outfielder, who is leading the American League in batting with an average of .389, have been added to this daily feature. Cobb and Speaker, who are not playing regularly, have been dropped.

Babe Ruth—Got a single and a double in three trips, and scored one run.

Lou Gehrig—Singled twice in two times up, driving in two runs and scoring two more.

Harry Heilmann—Got a single and double in three trips and scored one run.

Al Simmons—Singled once in three trips.

Rogers Hornsby—Idle.

Frankie Frisch—Singled once in three times up.

P. Waner—His single in the 12th gave the Pirates a 3 to 2 victory over the Robins in the second game after getting a single, double and home run in four times up in the first game.

Freddy Lindstrom—Got a single and triple, driving in five runs and scoring one himself.

Sad Sam Jones pitched the Washington Senators to an 8 to 9 victory over Cleveland.

Lu Blue hit two home runs as the St. Louis Browns beat the Boston Red Sox, 6 to 5. His second homer won the game.

The Blue and the Gray Aces

By QUIN HALL.

DAN HOWLEY, the manager of the St. Louis Browns, seems to be right smart when it comes to mixing up well known combinations. Dan has taken a youthful lot of ball players and mixed them in proper proportions with a few well seasoned campaigners and is giving St. Louis one of the fightingest teams it ever had in the American League.

In addition Dan has whetted up the patriotic fervor and once again recalled the stirring Civil War days by bringing out the same tent the Blue and the Gray.

Sammy Gray, with his steady pitching, is responsible for a mess of St. Louis victories so far this season and is good for a lot more before the final standings are passed over to the hot stove league and Lou Blue is doing a first class job of initial sacking for the Browns.

The very thing that led to Connie Mack trading off Gray is proving Sammy's ace in the hole during the present campaign. Connie didn't like the persis-

manner in which Sammy used the lob ball. Mack insisted that it was so slow that the opposing batters just got set and waited for it to arrive and then parked it in the four corners of the apple orchard.

Gray is using the same delivery this year, mixing it with his fast ones for a change of pace and is meeting with considerable success. Sammy, however, agrees that he's perfected the delivery so that it is much more deadly this year than last. He intimates that he needs lots of work and that on the big staff of the Athletics he didn't get a chance to pitch as often as he really should. He contends that his control improves with frequent work and he is of the opinion that he can twirl much better when he is allowed to take to the hill every fourth day.

Some of the fans were inclined to censure Mack when he traded Gray, who was acknowledged the outstanding young pitcher in 1925, to the Browns for Bing Miller. But Miller is helping out the Athletics with his heavy clouting, and Connie is in no manner angered over the trade or the fact that Sammy is making good in his new surroundings on the banks of the Mississippi River.

While never being an exceptional heavy handler of of the mace, Lou Blue has done his bit toward helping make the Browns what they are today. He covers the territory around the initial corner in an able manner, and he is a steady influence to an infield which is very new in some spots and yet very capable.

The Browns present a pretty formidable front these days and they are proving that they can upset the so-called experting experts of the game—a few of whom gave the club no better a spot than the cellar for the end of the season.

The wise ones in the game are allotting a place in the first division to Dan Howley's crew, and if the Athletics should crack it wouldn't be at all surprising to see the Browns on the second rung of the ladder. And Howley has a few rather green timbers which are sure to show a world of improvement, and it looks as if they would come into next year's race highly respected by the other clubs in the circuit.

And probably again next year we will find the Blue and the Gray still nestling together under the wing of Dan Howley.

WM. T. TILDEN IS RETURNING HOME TODAY

FOR 8 YEARS HAS BEEN PEER OF ALL AMERICAN TENNIS PLAYERS

COMES UNDECIDED AS TO AMA-TEUR OR PROFESSIONAL STANDING

New York, Aug. 8.—(U.P.)—William T. Tilden returns home today—a return that is almost alien to the man who for eight years has been the peer of all United States tennis players.

For Tilden returns unknowing whether he is an amateur or not and undecided what course he will take in regard to his future tennis campaigning. His amateur standing is to be decided August 24 at a special meeting of the United States Lawn Tennis association.

Eight years ago Tilden flashed across as the bulwark of the United States tennis team. Year after year his terrific service, his uncanny volleying and his vicious overhead drives beat back opposition.

Last year he was beaten by Rene Lacoste for the United States title, lost with the rest of the Americans in the Davis Cup matches, and repeated those losses in Paris a few weeks ago.

The popular cry was that Tilden had slipped and that age had robbed him of his fire. There were general predictions that he would retire from the game at which he had been a world champion.

This popular cry increased when the U. S. L. T. A., with whom Tilden often has fought, barred Tilden from competing in the Davis Cup matches because he wrote articles about the Wimbledon tournament, in which he was a competitor. This was said to be in violation of the amateur ruling. Tilden finally was reinstated.

What Tilden will do, no one knows. He is entered in the Southampton matches this week and is rated No. 1 at the East West matches at Forest Hills next week. The U. S. L. T. A. has ruled that it is up to Tilden himself to decide the propriety of participating in these matches with his amateur standing still in question.

"I have no plans and no statement to make," Tilden radioed the United Press yesterday from the liner Paris. "The Southampton officials wired me that Holcombe Ward had said I was eligible to play but I have not decided on anything yet."

It may be that Tilden will withdraw his Southampton entry, pending a show-down before the U. S. L. T. A. later this month.

MADE TO SERVE IN PRISON WRONGFULLY

London, Aug. 8.—(U.P.)—Oscar Slater will receive more than $1,000 for every year he served in prison wrongfully, for the murder of a woman.

Recently he was freed through an official court order from prison, after having served 20 years for murder. Slater always had insisted he was innocent of the charge and recently Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, creator of "Sherlock Holmes," interested himself in the case and brought about the evidence that resulted in Slater's freedom.

Then the government, as compensation for the incorrect punishment, decided to compensate Slater with $30,000.

Slater yesterday decided to accept the government compensation offer.

THREAT THAT U. S. TEAM WOULD

"AMERICANS NEVER QUIT," GEN-ERAL MAC ARTHUR SAID

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Sports Editor)

Amsterdam, Aug. 8.—American sportsmanship prevailed today and the threat that the United States team would withdraw from the Olympic boxing contests was ended.

"Americans never quit," General Douglas MacArthur said in ordering the boxers to continue their matches.

Last night Jacob Stumpf, manager of the American boxers, petitioned General MacArthur to withdraw the United States team as a protest against the decision that gave a three-round match to Marcel Sartos of Belgium over Hyman Miller, American flyweight.

The decision had been booed. Miller cried when it was announced and Spike Webb, coach of the United States team, frankly called the decision a "robbery."

The decision did look bad and most of the judging here has not been of the best but General MacArthur insisted the United States was in the meet until the last.

Second round matches today include:

John Daley, bantamweight, will meet Sanchez Martinez, Chile.

Stephen Holoiko, lightweight, will meet Majchrzycki, Poland.

In the first round this afternoon Harry Anderson, middleweight, will meet the Spanish entry, and Harry Devine, 126-pound class, will meet the Italian entry.

In the first boxing match on today's program, Taylor, English flyweight, defeated Trillo of Argentina by a decision.

Amsterdam, Aug. 8.—The United States entered the finals with England in the four shell without coxswain when the Pennsylvania Barge club defeated Italy by one length in the Olympic games today.

The time was six minutes, 29 2-5 seconds.

Kenneth Myers, Bachelors' Barge club, Philadelphia, entered the finals in the single sculls by winning over Gunther, Holland, by one and one-half lengths.

GEO. E. BRENNAN, DEMOCRATIC PARTY LEADER, DIES

PASSED AWAY AT MURPHY HOS-PITAL, CHICAGO, AT 8:10
A. M. TODAY

ACTIVE IN PRE-CONVENTION CAMPAIGN OF GOV. ALFRED
E. SMITH

Chicago, Aug. 8.—(U.P.)—George E. Brennan, one of the national leaders of the Democratic party, died at John B. Murphy hospital here at 8:10 a. m. today.

Brennan's death, due to a complication of septic poisoning and diabetes, had been expected for 24 hours. The veteran political leader had been in a comatose condition for more than 12 hours.

As early as yesterday afternoon his personal physician, Dr. C. R. G. Forrester, announced all hope of recovery had been given up.

At regular intervals, bulletins reported the 63-year-old Illinois political leader sinking rapidly. The last report, timed at 8 a. m. said he was dying.

Mrs. Brennan, a daughter, Mary, and the Rev. Father Scanlon of Mount Carmel church, were at the bedside when death came.

Brennan, who had been active in the pre-convention campaign of Gov. Alfred E. Smith, had been expected to lead democratic forces in Illinois in the fall election. He has been in the thick of political battles for years.

Brennan began his political career in 1893. In earlier life he had been a coal miner in southern Illinois. While working in the mines he received an injury to his leg which gave him almost lifelong trouble. Working and studying, he left the mines to become a school teacher.

He entered the insurance business in Chicago where he has resided throughout much of his life. In 1924 and 1928, he was chairman of the Illinois delegation to the democratic national convention, and was looked upon as boss of midwestern democrats. His death was a blow to the Illinois campaign this fall, democratic strategists admitted.

PRES. COOLIDGE TO DODGE HEAT WAVE

Cedar Island Lodge, Wis., Aug. 8.—

(U.P.)—President Coolidge does not intend to repeat a mistake of three years standing by returning to Washington early in September and being caught in late summer heat waves.

According to present plans, the chief executive will arrive in Washington about Sept. 25.

The president and Mrs. Coolidge will leave the summer White House about Sept. 10, it was learned today, and probably will visit in New England before returning.

A plan to visit Plymouth, Vermont, and Northampton, Mass., resulted from the president's desire to return to his boyhood home, unvisited for two years, and Mrs. Coolidge's anxiety over the condition of her mother, Mrs. Lemira Goodhue, who is ill in Northampton. A visit to Green Mountains also was included in the proposed itinerary.

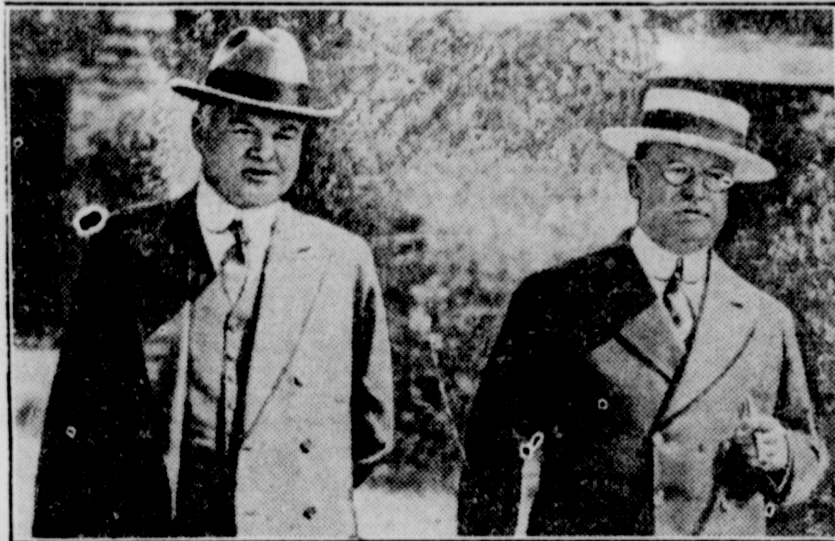

Until two years ago the president and Mrs. Coolidge visited Vermont at regular intervals. Mr. Coolidge's father and son, Calvin, Jr., are buried in Plymouth and, it was said, the president wished to visit their graves.

John, the Coolidge's son, who has vacationed with them, probably will remain with his parents until the return east.

SERIOUSLY ILL AFTER EATING MUSHROOMS

Mrs. F. J. Cummings and Mrs. A. J. Sailor, St. Paul, in Hospital Here

ATE AMANITA PHYLLOIDES

Picked Mushrooms Near Summer Cottages at Pelican Lake; Recovery Expected

Two St. Paul ladies, Mrs. F. J. Cummings and Mrs. A. J. Sailor, are seriously ill at the St. Joseph's hospital after eating Amanita Phylloides.

The two were rushed here after eating the poisonous mushrooms which were picked near their summer cottages on Pelican Lake.

Attending physicians said today that the two are expected to recover although as yet they have not passed from their serious conditions.

Mrs. Cummings and Mrs. Sailor became sick last Thursday a few hours after eating the mushrooms which they said had been boiled for a considerable time.

Amanita Phylloides is more commonly known as "the destroying angel" and considered by authorities among the most poisonous of mushroom plants.

MANY CHANGES IN CHRYSLER FACTORY

After August 8, all Chrysler "65" cars will be built in the company's Detroit Jefferson Avenue plant, J. E. Fields, vice-president in charge of sales, said yesterday. Removal of the "65" output from the Chrysler Highland Park plant is necessitated by the steadily growing demand for the new Chrysler-Plymouth and by the large production of the new DeSoto Six—announcement of which will be made next month.

Simultaneously, the company will put in operation at its Jefferson plant the most modern assembly building in the industry. This new unit consists of a two-story mezzanine structure 1,000 feet long which has been added to one of the main buildings of that plant to make a total assembly line of 1,400 feet.

Following completion of the work of removing the "65" output to its Jefferson plant, that unit will be producing all Chrysler "65", "75" and Imperial "80" cars, with the Highland Park facilities devoted exclusively to the Chrysler-Plymouth and the DeSoto Six.

The Highland Park plants also have undergone considerable rearrangement and expansion during recent months to care for the extraordinary demand for Chrysler products by the public and to prepare for DeSoto Six production. Mr. Fields pointed out. Early in July Chrysler formally opened one of the finest engineering laboratories in the country as an enlargement to its facilities there. Further additions to handle maximum production have also been provided, including a modern shipping building to facilitate car handling in all weather conditions.

TUBERCULOSIS CLINIC HERE

To be Conducted for Two Hours Saturday at Office of County Nurse

DR. STRADER IN CHARGE

Two Clinics Conducted During the Month of July With Attendance of 11

Announcement was made today of the free tuberculosis clinic to be held in the office of the county nurse, Miss Caroline Walz on Saturday, August 11 from 10 a. m. and 12 o'clock noon. Dr. E. L. Strader of the Deerwood sanatorium will be in charge.

The report of Miss Walz for the month of July follows:

Special Cases

Seven children and adults were accompanied to doctors' offices for treatment, refraction and examinations.

Three children were accompanied to a dentist.

A little girl was taken to St. Paul to the Capitol Artificial Limb Company for the fitting and measurements for an artificial limb.

Arrangements were made for two children in need of an operation for tonsils and adenoids.

Arrangements for hospital care were made for a patient.

An old man was taken to the local hospital.

Three applications were made out, one to the Gillette State Hospital for Crippled Children for a little girl with deformed legs; one to the University Hospital for a boy with defective eyes and the other to the State School for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing at Faribault for a boy who is partially deaf.

Home Visits

Eighty-two homes were visited. Two hundred and fourteen visits were made.

Clinics

Two tuberculosis clinics were held with an attendance of 11, three old and eight new cases.

MARATHON DANCERS BATTLE WITH HEAT

Three Weary Dancers Forced Out in Last Twenty-Four Hours

ONE BRAINERD ENTRY OUT

Dancing Barefooted and in Stocking Feet for Relief From Excessive Heat

Battling bravely against the excessive heat, the marathon dancers at Lum Park passed the 255 hour mark at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Dancing barefooted, in their stocking feet, even in bathing suits, the dancers were fighting valiantly to best the heat in a battle to remain on the floor.

The first Brainerd entry to drop out was Miss Elvina Daniels of couple No. 9, who failed to respond to the starting whistle at five o'clock this morning. Worn-out feet, together with a bad headache, proved the local girl's nemesis. Her partner, Melvin J. Bye, also of Brainerd, seemed in good condition this afternoon and is now dancing with the lady of couple No. 3 who lost her partner the night before last.

One of the favorites for first place was forced out at three o'clock this morning when Mrs. Winnifred Maguen of couple No. 2 fainted in her trainer's arms while being carried onto the floor to start the 3 o'clock period. At 11 o'clock last night she appeared in fine condition and gave an exhibition Charleston dance to entertain the crowd but she began to weaken soon after and was only able to stay until 3 o'clock because of a fine display of grit and the encouragement of her partner. Her partner was dancing doggedly on this afternoon, barefooted and footsore, but full of determination.

Between the hours of 10 and 11 o'clock last night the male partner of couple No. 6 was disqualified when after an argument with his partner, he refused to dance with her.

Couple No. 10 of Brainerd, who were not conceded much chance of placing by the early marathon pickers, appeared in fine condition this afternoon and may prove to be dangerous competition for other would-be finalists. Couple No. 5, a favorite of many fans, continued their same steady pace today and appear to be in good physical condition despite the many weary hours behind them.

ADVERTISE MEET HERE

Two Planes to Take up Passengers Sunday and Monday; Parachute Jump of 1,500 Feet

Making Brainerd their headquarters for lying while in the district, Gustaf O. Imm and Cliff Young of the Northern Airport, Maynard, Minn., started on another tour of the 10,000 lakes district today to advertise their two day engagement here next Sunday and Monday.

Imm, pilot, and owner of two planes, a Waco sport model and a Travelair, is a booster for the Rosko field. He feels that the field is the best in the district for airplane landing and takeoff and says that with little improvement it can be made into a field serviceable for any plane.

Young is scheduled to do a parachute drop of 1,500 feet over the Rosko field Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The planes here Sunday and Monday will have seating capacity for two passengers and the pilot.

WHY PRICE OF MILK WAS RAISED

Albert Johnson, President Brainerd Pure Milk Co., Gives Explanation

EXPLAINS FARMERS ACTION

Farmers Would Not Deliver Their Milk at the Old Price to Company

Albert Johnson, president of the Brainerd Pure Milk Co., states that it was necessary to raise the price of milk August 1, due to the fact that the farmers would not deliver their milk at the old price. The claim of the farmers is that the price of butter-fat at the creameries is better for them, considering the cost of daily delivery and equipment necessary for selling at the milk station. They also contend that the price of milk is on the basis of years ago, before freight rates, manufactured commodities and wages advanced.

These same farmers say that milk at 12c per quart compared with any other food containing anywhere near the same amount of food value is very cheap. That it is time that the farmers have an opportunity to advance their products in proportion to manufactured products. These farmers paid the highest price for milk feed since war times. Bran is selling at a maximum of $42 per ton compared to $26 of other years.

The pastures this spring were very poor and cows had to be fed until the late rains. During July and August the flies and mosquitoes raise havoc with them, reducing the milk flow 33% to 50%. About this time of year, pastures begin to burn, and the cows must be fed grain again in order to produce.

While the cost of producing pasteurized milk is more than two cents a quart, over the raw milk, this difference will not net the company one penny more, as it all goes to the farmers who produce the product. It was a position the company had to meet in order to keep their plant with its twenty thousand dollar investment running. During the month of July it was necessary for them to import milk from as far as Elk River at a premium, to take care of their trade.

Albert Johnson and his brother's estate, have an investment here which they want to operate, and personally he wants to make good. If they were compelled to close, it would be a handicap to them as well as to a great many citizens of Brainerd who positively prefer the pasteurized milk.

"We realize," said Mr. Johnson, "that in a way all these different institutions help to make a better city. The company believes when the benefit of pasteurized milk is thoroughly understood, you would all regret its passing."

"You can readily see that a modern pasteurizing plant cannot produce milk as cheaply as raw milk. The investment of twenty thousand dollars, wages to employees, taxes, insurance and the upkeep, will make a difference of more than the 2c per quart."

"We understand that any farmer whose herd is under federal and state supervision for T. B. cannot feed his calves skimmed milk which has not become pasteurized if not coming from his own premises. Surely the crop of children are worth as much to us and our country as its calves."

The company wants your patronage and good will, and will strive to merit your confidence. Mr. Johnson has all his interests in the business and wishes to remain in Brainerd and become a bonafide citizen of your city. And most of all he wishes to make good, which is the ambition of every young man. They thank you for past favors and hope you will help them to build a pasteurizing plant which will be second to none.

SERIOUSLY ILL AFTER EATING MUSHROOMS

Mrs. F. J. Cummings and Mrs. A. J. Sailor, St. Paul, in Hospital Here

ATE AMANITA PHYLLOIDES

Picked Mushrooms Near Summer Cottages at Pelican Lake; Recovery Expected

Two St. Paul ladies, Mrs. F. J. Cummings and Mrs. A. J. Sailor, are seriously ill at the St. Joseph's hospital after eating Amanita Phylloides.

The two were rushed here after eating the poisonous mushrooms which were picked near their summer cottages at Pelican Lake.

Attending physicians said today that the two are expected to recover although as yet they have not passed their serious conditions.

Mrs. Cummings and Mrs. Sailor became sick last Thursday a few hours after eating the mushrooms which they said had been boiled for a considerable time.

Amanita Phylloides is more commonly known as "the destroying angel" and considered by authorities among the most poisonous of mushroom plants.

While considerable smoke came from the car, there was no blaze. The name of the automobile owner is unknown.

MANY CHANGES IN CHRYSLER FACTORY

After August 8, all Chrysler "65" cars will be built in the company's Detroit Jefferson Avenue plant, J. E. Fields, vice-president in charge of sales, said yesterday. Removal of the "65" output from the Chrysler Highland Park plant is necessitated by the steadily growing demand for the new Chrysler-Plymouth and by the large production of the new DeSoto Six—announcement of which will be made next month.

Simultaneously, the company will put in operation at its Jefferson plant the most modern assembly building in the industry. This new unit consists of a two-story mezzanine structure 1,000 feet long which has been added to one of the main buildings of that plant to make a total assembly line of 1,400 feet.

Following completion of the work of removing the "65" output to its Jefferson plant, that unit will be producing all Chrysler "65", "75" and Imperial "80" cars, with the Highland Park facilities devoted exclusively to the Chrysler-Plymouth and the DeSoto Six.

The Highland Park plants also have undergone considerable rearrangement and expansion during recent months to care for the extraordinary demand for Chrysler products by the public and to prepare for DeSoto Six production, Mr. Fields pointed out. Early in July Chrysler formally opened one of the finest engineering laboratories in the country as an enlargement to its facilities there. Further additions to handle maximum production have also been provided, including a modern shipping building to facilitate car handling in all weather conditions.

MARATHON DANCERS BATTLE WITH HEAT

Three Weary Dancers Forced Out in Last Twenty-Four Hours

ONE BRAINERD ENTRY OUT

Dancing Barefooted and in Stocking Feet for Relief From Excessive Heat

Battling bravely against the excessive heat, the marathon dancers at Lum Park passed the 255 hour mark at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Dancing barefooted, in their stocking feet, even in bathing suits, the dancers were fighting valiantly to best the heat in a battle to remain on the floor.

The first Brainerd entry to drop out was Miss Elvina Daniels of couple No. 9, who failed to respond to the starting whistle at five o'clock this morning. Worn-out feet, together with a bad headache, proved the local girl's nemesis. Her partner, Melvin J. Bye, also of Brainerd, seemed in good condition this afternoon and is now dancing with the lady of couple No. 3 who lost her partner the night before last.

One of the favorites for first place was forced out at three o'clock this morning when Mrs. Winnifred Magen of couple No. 2 fainted in her trainer's arms while being carried onto the floor to start the 3 o'clock period. At 11 o'clock last night she appeared in fine condition and gave an exhibition Charleston dance to entertain the crowd but she began to weaken soon after and was only able to stay until 3 o'clock because of a fine display of grit and the encouragement of her partner. Her partner was dancing doggedly on this afternoon, barefooted and foot-sore, but full of determination.

Between the hours of 10 and 11 o'clock last night the male partner of couple No. 6 was disqualified when after an argument with his partner, he refused to dance with her.

Couple No. 10 of Brainerd, who were not conceded much chance of placing by the early marathon pickers, appeared in fine condition this afternoon and may prove to be dangerous competition for other would-be finalists. Couple No. 5, a favorite of many fans, continued their same steady pace today and appear to be in good physical condition despite the many weary hours behind them.

Love's Ecstasy

by May Christie

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

ALEDA RAY, pretty country girl, working in New York as a stenographer, is in love with Gary Chester, young engineer. She is living with Marise de Rense and the latter's young, sophisticated sister, Goldie. Goldie and Clive Mortimer, ne'er-do-well Englishman, arrange a party for Smithson, wealthy founder. Goldie, jealous of Alela, tricks her into attending the party and then notifies Chester that he will find Alela there. Alela is shocked by the "party" and tries to leave. Gary arrives and, disillusioned, takes Alela home. Alela tries to explain the distasteful situation but Gary seems unconvinced. Next day Gary finds a vanity case enclosing a $50 bill, in his pocket, a memento of Smithson's party. He returns it to Alela with a curt note.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XLII.

WITH a sulky expression on her usually impudent young face, Goldie de Rense sat on the edge of the kitchen table in the basement of the house on West Fortieth street, nibbling at a cruller, sipping black coffee (she certainly required it on this "morning after") and trying not to listen to Marise!

"For once you'll hear the truth about yourself! I'm sick and tired and ashamed of your carryings on!"

"Oh, heck! Can that old stuff!"

"Don't talk to me like that! If you were only a year or two younger, I'd give you a good spanking, I declare!"

"You try it! Watch me step out forever from this old dump!"

"Stepped" is correct! A common little high-stepper who's already at eighteen—gone too fast and far! If I weren't so—so damned mad at you—I could cry about you!"

"Nix on the water works!"

"I'm in earnest, Goldie! A young girl coming into her home at four in the morning—drunk!"

The flapper tossed her red-gold head. "What if I'd had a glass or two? With all of you dead ones around, and I working like a dog to help things out for you, why grouse if once in a while I do try to put a little kick into my life?"

"You've got a home, haven't you? If you want to have a good time with your friends, why don't you ask them to come here?"

Miss Goldie sniffed, impatiently. "Huh? This old joint? Fine time they'd have here, it's like a morgue!"

"It's the best I can give you, Goldie! Marise, in her heart deeply loving this wayward sister, felt almost at the breaking-point. "And I can't stand not knowing what you're doing—I fear for you—sit, and wonder, and think..."

"What the eye doesn't see, the heart shouldn't grieve over!" Miss-

But Goldie merely cocked an eyebrow, murmured: "Huh? I s'pose he's calling for her at her office?" slid from the kitchen-table, and with a casual: "By-by, ole wet-blanket!" she was off.

It was just on six o'clock, and Alela preparing to depart from the office, when—to her surprise—Goldie marched in.

"I've a date this way. Just thought I'd drop in, and say 'hello.'" Her green eyes lighted on the vanity-case that had been presented to Alela at the party last night. "Pretty little thing, what, ho?"

Alela picked it up. She said, breathlessly: "I want you to give it right back!"

"Hum! His highness didn't approve of it? The wind blows from that quarter, eh?"

She gave a quick glance round the office, expecting to see Gary Chester who—she had heard through her sister—had invited Alela out tonight...at the same time stretching forth a predatory paw (there was really something cat-like in the movements and the eyes of Goldie at this moment) towards the trinket.

Alela hesitated, looked at Goldie...and distrusted. She opened the case and removed the $50 note. "I'll return this by registered mail to Mr. Smithson." She handed Goldie only the vanity-case.

Goldie was balked of the $50—greatly disappointed—though she hid her wrath (She would get even with Alela!)

Aloud she merely said, with nonchalance: "I'll give it to him at the Harvest Moon if he drops in this evening," and then went off.

She did not leave the building, however. In a telephone booth down by the front door on the main floor she peered through the glass panel toward the exit, waiting to see if Gary Chester should turn up.

She saw Alela pass out among the crowds and cross the street. Should she follow her or not? Alela had a sad, wilted sort of a look that somehow didn't betoken a rendezvous with a handsome young man.

And as Goldie hesitated a long red car slid up to the curb, and out of it stepped Gary Chester, who hurried into the building and toward the elevators.

Miss Goldie did not wait one moment longer. She rushed out of the booth and was just in time to get alongside Gary and step with him into the elevator.

BODY OF YOUNG WOMAN FOUND AT EVANSTON

BELIEVED TO BE THAT OF MISS JENNIE CONSTANCE, TEACHER

FOUND BRUTALLY BEATEN TO DEATH IN AN AREAWAY

Evanston, Ill., Aug. 8.—(UPI)—The body of a young woman, believed by police to be Miss Jennie Constance, a Bradley college, Peoria, Ill., teacher, was found brutally beaten to death here today.

The body, lying in an areaway three doors from Miss Constance's home, was found by a milkman. The young woman had been attacked and killed with a gas pipe, police reported.

Partial identification of the body by Acting Chief of Police Charles Pasch was based on the fact the body resembled that of Miss Constance, and was clothed in a peach-colored dress resembling that worn by the teacher when she left home.

She had failed to return to her home after leaving to visit a library. Books were found near the body, but failed to aid in identification, police said. The features, because of the beating, were unrecognizable.

Pierre S. DuPont To Resign From the General Motors Board

Wilmington, Del., Aug. 8.—(UPI)—Pierre S. DuPont, one of the large stockholders on the board of the General Motors corporation, is expected to resign from the board tomorrow.

DuPont issued a statement yesterday saying:

"I have nothing to say at this time. I will make an important statement to the directors of the General Motors at their meeting in New York on Thursday afternoon and that statement will be given out when made."

DuPont has been expected to make a political statement for several weeks and inasmuch as he is a close friend of Governor Smith, it was expected he might support the governor's presidential ambitions.

Alfred P. Sloan, president of General Motors, recently said the corporation could have no part in the political campaign and many believed that might lead to DuPont's retirement from the General Motors board.

Extreme Northern Lands

The territory surrounding the North pole is owned by different nations. The United States owns Alaska. Canada owns some of the far northern territory. Denmark owns Greenland. Russia owns the land from Bering straits westward. Norway owns Spitzbergen. Denmark owns Iceland. There is no knowledge of land nearer the North pole than the places just listed.

Love's Ecstasy

by May Christie

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

ALEDA RAY, pretty country girl, working in New York as a stenographer, is in love with Gary Chester, young engineer. She is living with Marise de Rense and the latter's young, sophisticated sister, Goldie. Goldie and Clive Mortimer, ne'er-do-well Englishman, arrange a party for Smithson, wealthy rounder. Goldie, jealous of Alveda, tricks her into attending the party and then notifies Chester that he will find Alveda there. Alveda is shocked by the "party" and tries to leave. Gary arrives and, disillusioned, takes Alveda home. Alveda tries to explain the distasteful situation but Gary seems unconvinced. Next day Gary finds a vanity case enclosing a $50 bill, in his pocket, a memento of Smithson's party. He returns it to Alveda with a curt note.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XLII.

WITH a sulky expression on her usually impudent young face, Goldie de Rense sat on the edge of the kitchen table in the basement of the house on West Fortieth street, nibbling at a cruller, sipping black coffee (she certainly required it on this "morning after") and trying not to listen to Marise!

"For once you'll hear the truth about yourself! I'm sick and tired and ashamed of your carryings on!"

"Oh, heck! Can that old stuff!"

"Don't talk to me like that! If you were only a year or two younger, I'd give you a good spanking, I declare!"

"You try it! Watch me step out forever from this old dump!"

"Stepped" is correct! A common little high-stepper who's already at eighteen—gone too fast and far! If I weren't so—darned mad at you—I could cry about you—"

"Nix on the water works!"

"I'm in earnest, Goldie! A young girl coming into her home at four in the morning—drunk!"

The flapper tossed her red-gold head. "What if I'd had a glass or two? With all of you dead ones around, and I working like a dog to help things out for you, why grouse if once in a while I do try to put a little kick into my life?"

"You've got a home, haven't you? If you want to have a good time with your friends, why don't you ask them to come here?"

Miss Goldie sniffed, impatiently. "Huh? This old joint? Fine time they'd have here, it's like a morgue!"

"It's the best I can give you, Goldie!" Marise, in her heart deeply loving this wayward sister, felt almost at the breaking-point. "And I can't stand not knowing what you're doing—I fear for you so—I sit, and wonder, and think."

"What the eye doesn't see, the heart shouldn't grieve over!" misquoted Goldie, pertly apt. Then, in a tone that was meant to be placating (it wouldn't suit her plucking to have a final quarrel with Marise just at this moment) she added: "Maybe I'll bring joy into the old maid's heart by suddenly marrying, and settling down!"

That brought a flood of recollection to Marise. She said, sharply: "If your mind's on that young fellow who came a couple of times to the club—the one you ogled so—you're on the wrong track! He's a gentleman—only real ladies could attract him—he's interested in Alveda!"

"Poof! A fig for Miss Prunes and Prisms! If I'm up my mind I want a thing, I have my way!"

"Don't be too sure. You're—ordinary, Goldie! The way you are now, a man of that sort would only make a fool—out of your kind!"

"Hum! Haw!" Goldie's green eyes narrowed. There was a venomous look in them, just like an angry cat. She reached out now to scratch with a: "The same sort of a ninny—huh?—as you're made of, by your darling Clive?"

She saw her sister wince and reddened, for those claws of hers had hurt Marise.

And she was glad of it. Goldie de Rense loved no female creature—not even the one nearest and kindest to her—in this wide, wide world!

Ensued a pause in the verbal battle. Goldie sipped her coffee. She wished she had an aspirin, for her head ached.

Alveda and Gary Chester? She must further "sound" Marise.

"It was I who got Chester to bring Alveda home from the party," she began tentatively. "I couldn't break away myself—so soon—"

"He needed no pressing. He handed Alveda out of a handsome car, as though she were a little queen—and I heard him asking her to dine with him tonight!"

This was a snub for Goldie. Maybe it would make her more amenable to decent ways?

But Goldie merely cocked an eyebrow, murmured: "Huh? I s'pose he's calling for her at her office?" slid from the kitchen-table, and with a casual: "By-by, ole wet-blanket!" she was off.

It was just on six o'clock, and Alveda preparing to depart from the office, when—to her surprise—Goldie marched in.

"I've a date this way. Just thought I'd drop in, and say 'hello.'" Her green eyes lighted on the vanity-case that had been presented to Alveda at the party last night. "Pretty little thing, what, huh?"

Alveda picked it up. She said, breathlessly:—"I want you to give it right back!"

"Hum! His highness didn't approve of it? The wind blows from that quarter, eh?"

She gave a quick glance round the office, expecting to see Gary Chester who—she had heard through her sister—had invited Alveda out tonight... at the same time stretching forth a predatory paw (there was really something cat-like in the movements and the eyes of Goldie at this moment) towards the trinket.

Alveda hesitated, looked at Goldie... and distrusted. She opened the case and removed the $50 note. "I'll return this by registered mail to Mr. Smithson." She handed Goldie only the vanity-case.

Goldie was balked of the $50—greatly disappointed—though she hid her wrath (She would get even with Alveda!)

Alveda she merely said, with nonchalance: "I'll give it to him at the Harvest Moon if he drops in this evening," and then went off.

She did not leave the building, however. In a telephone booth down by the front door on the main floor she peered through the glass panel toward the exit, waiting to see if Gary Chester should turn up.

She saw Alveda pass out among the crowds and cross the street. Should she follow her or not? Alveda had a sad, wilted sort of a look that somehow didn't betoken a rendezvous with a handsome young man.

And as Goldie hesitated a long red car slid up to the curb, and out of it stepped Gary Chester, who hurried into the building and toward the elevators.

Miss Goldie did not wait one moment longer. She rushed out of the booth and was just in time to get alongside Gary and step with him into the elevator.

Continued.

BELIEVED TO BE THAT OF MISS JENNIE CONSTANCE, TEACHER

FOUND BRUTALLY BEATEN TO DEATH IN AN AREAWAY

Evanston, Ill., Aug. 8.—(UP)—The body of a young woman, believed by police to be Miss Jennie Constance, a Bradley college, Peoria, Ill., teacher, was found brutally beaten to death here today.

The body, lying in an areaway three doors from Miss Constance's home, was found by a milkman. The young woman had been attacked and killed with a gas pipe, police reported.

Partial identification of the body by Acting Chief of Police Charles Pasch was based on the fact the body resembled that of Miss Constance, and was clothed in a peach-colored dress resembling that worn by the teacher when she left home.

She had failed to return to her home after leaving to visit a library. Books were found near the body, but failed to aid in identification, police said. The features, because of the beating, were unrecognizable.
